BUENOS—A state highway department laborer, Jesse Mulford, 65, of Benton, was instantly killed shortly before noon today, when a maintenance truck operated by Gerald Zeigler of Bucyrus, Crawford county authorities said, backed up and ran over him. The crew was clearing snow from State Route 4, three miles north of here.

Blustery March dished out its traditional weather menu today, leaving Richland county and the surrounding area blanketed under a heavy, sticky snowfall which snarled traffic, forced the closing of schools, and otherwise interfered with regular activity.

There will be more snow tonight and the temperature will be moderately cold, the weatherman warned.

Hundreds of automobiles became mired in snow that clung in fresh cake icing. Every available piece of road-clearing equipment was pressed into service.

The snowfall in Mansfield reached an official depth of eight inches—ranging in various portions of the city from 6 1/2 to 11 inches. Most hard hit area in the county was the hilly southern portion, where drifts piled up as high as three or four feet.

Six of the county's 11 district schools were closed as buses were unable to buck the drifts on rural roads, and 2,400 of the 4,729 pupils in the 11 schools found themselves with a surprise holiday.

The Ohio Public Service company, the Mansfield Telephone company, and the Ohio Bell Telephone company reported the snow had surprisingly little effect on their power and telephone lines, but it was feared damage would be serious if the temperature (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

MEASLES STRIKE

Outbreak Reported In Shiloh: School Pupils Ill.

An outbreak of German measles was reported in the Shiloh school district today by Dr. William B. Wild, city health commissioner.

Wild said that five cases had been reported among children at Shiloh schools and that precautions were being taken to prevent a spread of the disease. School authorities said today that there were 12 pupils absent and said that they believed the absence was due to measles.

Wild also reported that there had been several cases of mumps and streptococcal throat reported in the past few weeks throughout the city and county.

Landis Says Mid-West 5 Months Off on Civilian Defense.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The middle west is four to five months behind schedule in civilian defense preparations, OGD Director James M. Landis declared today.

"I hope it won't take anything as drastic as a bombing to wake the people up to the danger, but unquestionably that would do marvels," Landis told reporters as he arrived here for a speech tonight. "It took a bombing attack in England before the program there started to click."

ENROLLMENT DROPS

COLUMBUS—(NS)—Enrollment at Ohio State university, where the spring quarter opens today, undoubtedly will be under last year's figures, officials reported. Last night a total of 7,369 students had paid fees as compared with 9795 at the same time last year.

As Heavy Snow Creates Beauty and Hazards

Here are some typical scenes as Mansfield was treated to its heaviest snowfall of the winter this morning—10 days after the arrival of spring. In upper left is the Civil war statue in Central park, well loaded down with snow, and in the background a worker hard at the job of clearing drifts. Upper right illustrates how motorists who left their cars out all night found them blanketed with snow this morning. Lower left is a typical scene in the business area as the snow was converted into slush under this morning's traffic. The view is on Third street between Main and Walnut, looking west. Lower right is an example of the many scenes of beauty which greeted Mansfielders this morning. The view is in Central park, looking east.

STUDY ROUTE 42 IMPROVEMENTS

City, State Officials Meet on Project Estimated To Cost $84,000.

Proposed plans for the improvement of two Mansfield streets which serve as important links in U. S. Route 42 were discussed yesterday at Ashland by Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff and Vance Grimes, state divisional highway engineer.

Wolff said that the project, which would call for the improvement of Park avenue east from the subway to and around Central park and also of Hedge and East First streets would cost approximately $84,000.

Wolff said that the city would be expected to pay half of this amount, $42,000. The final decision as to whether the city would accept a proposition for the improvement (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Watch Your Step Tomorrow, It's April Fool's Day

If Mansfielders recover enough from the shock given them by the weatherman, they are probably making plans for practical jokes to be played on friends tomorrow—April Fool's day.

Fake telephone calls, purses attached to strings, bricks under hats and all the other foolish customs of the day will be dusted off for use.

Telephone company officials have asked subscribers to keep all April Fool's day jokes off the telephone wires so that vital messages for war production and defense work will not be delayed.

The observance of April Fool's day was started in Europe. The Romans held a Feast of Fools but celebrated it on Feb. 17. In France, the feast was connected with the opening of the fishing season.

Pétain Again Refuses to Take Laval Into Regime

Washington Hears Premier Remains Firm, Opposes Reinstatement of Pro-Nazi Collaborationist.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Diplomatic advisers available in Washington today indicate that Marshal Henri Pétain of France has refused again to reinstate former Vice Premier Pierre Laval in the French government.

Receipt of word to this effect has greatly relieved the concern that was felt in official Washington quarters over the meeting last Thursday between Pétain and the leader of the pro-German collaborationist group at Randon, 12 miles outside Vichy.

Germany is known to have been pressing for Laval's return to the Vichy government. It was feared that the meeting with Pétain might be the prelude to Laval's return. However, the diplomatic advisers indicate that Pétain remains firm, for the present at least, in his determination not to have Laval back in the government.

Laval was deposed as vice-premier and heir apparent to Pétain's post as chief of the French state 15 months ago, after he had angered the marshal by committing the Vichy government to close collaboration with Germany. The Germans have sought on several occasions to have him reinstated (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

He was co-sponsor of the legislation that set up Ohio's defense council, and also introduced amendments to previous legislation tightening up requirements for the issuance of driving licenses.

Things Are Looking Up For That Boost In Pay, Soldier

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Hey soldier, things are looking up on that idea of boosting your pay to $42 a month.

The senate voted yesterday to double the $21-a-month basic pay of army bug privates but at least a fortnight and possibly much longer will elapse before the military affairs committee would start hearings on the pay increase bill before April 13.

As passed in the senate by a vote of 73 to 0, the measure would make the first basic change in the army pay scale in 20 years. The bill proposes increases all along the line for enlisted men in both the army and navy. In the army, a master sergeant, the highest non-commissioned classification, would receive $138 a month instead of $126. Chief petty officer in the navy would receive similar increases.

Senate Investigators Call President of Oil Firm In Cartel Probe.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—W. S. Farish, president of Standard Oil company of New Jersey, today described as without a "shadow of foundation" charges that his company retarded synthetic rubber production in this country.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—The senate defense investigating committee asked the Standard Oil company of New Jersey today for its version of the company's pre-war deals with the German dye trust. The justice department charges the transactions helped develop Nazi production of synthetic rubber and gasoline while retarding it in the United States.

The committee said that W. S. Farish, president, would appear as spokesman for the company at a hearing (at 10:30 a. m., EWV). Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general in charge of anti-trust enforcement, told the committee last week that as a result of cartel agreements with I. G. Farben of Germany, Standard had "frustrated the creation of an American synthetic rubber industry."

Snow Slows Up Deadline Rush For New Car Tags

Today's heavy snow slowed up the last-minute rush to buy new license tags, and Deputy Registrar Jack Berger of the Richland county auto club reported at noon it appeared that many motorists would miss the deadline.

Those without tags tonight will be leaving their cars at home, because 1942 plates must be displayed after midnight. Berger said sales to date are more than 1,000 tags behind the same date last year. Lines of purchasers at auto club windows this morning were considerably shorter than in former years. The club is remaining open until 8 p. m. tonight to take care of last-minute purchasers.

TWO NARROWLY ESCAPE DEATH AT CROSSINGS

Truck Driver Thrown Clear of Vehicle Demolished By Pennsy Train.

WOMAN INJURED

Escapes With Bruises When She Drives Auto Into Side of Engine.

Two persons had close brushes with death in grade crossing accidents last night and early today at crossings of the Pennsylvania railroad in and near the city.

William Roush, 22, Mansfield, R. D. 3, miraculously escaped serious injury when he was thrown clear of his truck when a passenger train ground the car beneath its wheels near the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company shortly after 1 a. m. today.

The accident occurred inside the Empire grounds through which the railroad line passes. Mystery surrounded Roush's escape from death. Neither he nor authorities could ascertain how he was thrown from the driver's seat onto a bank along the railroad tracks.

Roush suffered neck and face injuries and was taken to General hospital where his condition was reported as "fair" today.

Opal Rola, 22, of 130 Purdy street, received only a scalp laceration and abrasions of the knees when her automobile ran into the side of a locomotive on East Fifth street late yesterday.

Edward Jones, 78 Park avenue east, watchman at the crossing, told police he flagged her and attempted to stop the car but that it rammed into the side of a west-bound train. The right side of the auto was badly damaged.

The accident at the steel plant still puzzled deputies from Sheriff Frank Robinson's office today. James Furr of Shelby, watchman at the crossing, told them he had flagged Roush but that the truck driver, who is employed at the plant, continued on across the tracks.

The locomotive hit the rear of Roush's truck.

Roush was unable to tell the deputies whether he was thrown through the roof of the cab of his truck or out the window.

The driver said that he had been towing an automobile that had been stuck in the heavy snow and that he failed to notice Furr's signals.

ASKS ACTION

Justice Department Would Denaturalize Bundist.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Denaturalization of Fritz Kuhn, erstwhile leader of the German American Bund, will be asked by the justice department "soon," officials said today.

Now imprisoned in Sing Sing for embezzlement of bond funds, Kuhn would be interned as an enemy alien upon his release from prison if the federal court approves the denaturalization petition to be filed against him in New York.

Kuhn was said to be among the 300 allegedly "disloyal" foreign born citizens against whom the justice department is ready to proceed. By the end of the year, the number of proceedings initiated will exceed 1,000.

Actions will be limited not to the bund, but will encompass the memberships of other foreign-dominated or subversive groups. Thus far, the department has identified none but the bund by name.

Approach Prome On Right Wing of Allied Line As Chinese Yield Ground On Left Flank Near Toungoo; Foe Raids Mandalay From Air.

(By Associated Press)

Japan's drive toward the oil fields of northwest Burma and the gateway to India took a menacing turn today as British headquarters acknowledged that Japanese troops supported by traitorous Burmese natives had advanced within 10 miles of Prome. Prome is the British-held anchor on the right wing of the Allied defense line in central Burma.

The city is strategically important as a barrier to the rich Yenangyaung oil fields. It also guards the Irrawaddy river route to Mandalay.

A British communique said the Japanese penetrated to Shwedaung, 10 miles below Prome, with frontier troops inflicting 300 casualties and capturing 70 prisoners.

The communique said British forces launched an attack to clear enemy roadblocks in Shwedaung. No information on the outcome was available.

Equally dark news came from the Chinese-held left flank on the Toungoo front. A communique said Chinese troops "joined with other forces to the north and east" of Toungoo and readjusted their positions in that area.

This indicated that the Chinese forces, commanded by Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, U. S. A., apparently had withdrawn from Toungoo.

Later Chinese dispatches, however, said Chinese reinforcements moving south to aid Gen. Stilwell's hard-pressed forces had occupied a railroad station 10 miles north of Toungoo and had made contact with Chinese troops still holding out in the eastern part of Toungoo.

Simultaneously, Axis reports said the Japanese had carried out heavy aerial raids on Mandalay and attacked other key points on the Toungoo-Mandalay road, evidently seeking to prevent reinforcement.

A Chinese army spokesman said 10,000 Chinese soldiers were holding the eastern part of Toungoo against 18,000 Japanese in the western section.

RELENTLESS: Soviets Press Attack As Winter Snows Melt

(By Associated Press)

Russia's armies, pressing a relentless spring offensive amid the thawing snows of winter, were reported battering heavily at key German bases along the entire front today while the Nazi high command claimed aerial successes and the destruction of 183 Soviet tanks between March 23 and March 30.

German field headquarters acknowledged severe Russian pressure in the Ukraine, on the central (Moscow) front, and in the far north, but asserted that Nazi dive-bombers had "frustrated" a tank-led Soviet attack in the critical battle around Lake Ilmen.

The high command described the dive-bomber assault as taking place "northwest of Lake Ilmen," presumably referring to the Staraya Russa sector where the German 16th army has been trapped for many weeks.

Soviet front-line dispatches said Red army cavalrymen, attacking in the same region northwest of Moscow, beat off a stiff German attack, forced the Nazis to retreat and seized an important populated place.

A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's headquarters said German bombers again attacked the Soviet Arctic supply port of Murmansk, and claimed three British bombers were shot down "in an attempt to fly by night into occupied Norwegian territory."

Other dispatches indicated a steadily growing battle along the United Nations' far north supply route to Russia.

The Berlin correspondent of the Swiss newspaper, La Suisse, said that the German fleet and air force were facing serious problems in Norway and Finland, and that a United States-British convoy had been able to continue its voyage despite Nazi air attacks.

"The increased protection of these convoys has immobilized a large number of German air units (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

RUTHLESS: Japs Bomb Batan Hospital, Pound At Corregidor

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Ruthless Japanese bombing of a plainly marked American base hospital on Batan was reported today by the war department in a communique which also disclosed that Corregidor has been bombed for the seventh consecutive day.

Indicating that the bombing of the hospital was deliberate, the communique stated that the attack occurred at noon, that the building was clearly identified, and that previously the area had been carefully avoided by enemy aircraft.

"At noon on March 30," the communique said, "a base hospital in Batan was bombed by the Japanese, causing a number of casualties. This hospital was plainly marked and had been carefully avoided by the enemy bombers until yesterday."

While the lull in land fighting continued, Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's artillery and anti-aircraft gunners again blasted away at Japanese planes and shore batteries.

One battery on Fort Hughes, a short distance from Corregidor island, destroyed an enemy launch battles of the Dutch East Indies and the Philippines.

A bright report of performance and skill—backgrounded on the fact fresh Allied air units are still missing for the battles of Burma and Australia—was presented in an interview at U. S. Army headquarters in Australia by Col. Eugene L. Eubank head of the U. S. bomber command which struck at invasion forces from Luzon to Java.

Col. Eubank smashed Japanese claims to superior flying ability with a declaration that his men had shot down half a hundred pursuit ships, aircraft largely designed for destruction of bombers. He did not list Japanese planes destroyed on the ground, but they were reported to have been numerous.

American bombardiers sank or seriously damaged 46 transports and 16 warships up to March 1, the colonel said.

"Our losses in action were extremely low, especially considering the long range of action," he said. "We lost only two planes through pilot errors, mistakes in landing, etc. This is a marvelous record and puts Japanese flying to shame."

United Nations aircraft fired buildings, damaged hangars and piled wreckage of the airframe at Japanese-occupied Lae, New Guinea, in a high level attack through difficult weather yesterday, a Melbourne communique said.

It announced that seven Japanese planes had dropped from 25 to 30 bombs on the airframe of Darwin, north Australian port, but said "no casualties or damage were reported."

India Rejection of British Offer Hinted

NEW DELHI, India.—(UPI)—Mohandas K. Gandhi, who often has stood against the British empire, was reported today to have swung the all-India congress working committee against acceptance of Great Britain's plan for enlisting an independent India in the war against Japan.

in Norway, and has necessitated the reinforcement of the army of occupation in Norway and the air force in Finland," said the Berlin account.

The German command said U-boats continued attacks against a convoy carrying supplies to Russia via the far north route, sinking two "heavily laden transports" totalling 11,000 tons at a distance to Kola bay. A third ship was torpedoed in heavy seas at the approaches to Murmansk, it said.

Ready to Go Home If Mission Fails

LONDON.—(UPI)—Sir Stafford Crisp said today he is prepared to leave India immediately unless the Nationalist congress accepts Great Britain's "final" wartime offer of post-war dominion status for India, the Exchange Telegraph agency reported.

British dispatches from New Delhi told of a dramatic fight, under way within the All-India congress between Mohandas K. Gandhi and Jawaharlal Nehru over the British plans.

The Exchange Telegraph said that the congress' attitude had "definitely stiffened" with both Gandhi and Nehru opposing Britain's offer.

A newspaperman was said to have told Crisp that there appeared to be scant chance of the congress accepting the proposal which he brought here, whereupon the British envoy said: "Then I will go."

British Tanks Halt Advance of Japs

MANDALAY.—(UPI)—British tank forces in western Burma were reported today to have smashed an initial attempt by 10,000 Japanese troops to penetrate northward to Prome, gateway to the Burmese oil fields, while hard-fighting Chinese units continued to hold out at Toungoo, on the central front.

As imperial British forces battled the Japanese in the vicinity of Prome, it was reported that reinforcements were being speeded to the beleaguered Chinese garrison at Toungoo.

A message from United Nations headquarters at Alamo to the Chinese at Toungoo said: "Every extra hour the Toungoo garrison holds out is an hour in favor of the Allies. The Japanese are due for an unpleasant surprise in the near future."

provement of the streets rests with council, Wolff said.

Hedges and East First street were partially closed recently because heavy truck traffic which ran over them since last fall when this route was made a truck bypass of U. S. Route 42, crushed the pavement and combined with recurrent thaws to tear large holes in the streets.

City council will be informed of the discussion of the project at its next meeting on April 7, Wolff said, but no legislation will be presented at the meeting.

PETAIN AGAIN REFUSES LAVAL

Washington Hears Premier Won't Take Pro-Nazi Into Government.

but Petain has refused each time.

Uncertainty concerning the Thursday meeting between the marshal and Laval, cast a temporary shadow over the recently improved relations between the American government and Vichy.

Following the receipt of renewed assurances from the French government that it would not render any military aid to the Axis, the state department had intended to approve the resumption of trade with French North Africa and consider permitting another American Red Cross food shipment to unoccupied France.

When word of the Petain-Laval meeting was received, it was decided to hold everything in abeyance pending a clarification of that development.

Laval's return to the French government would be regarded by the state department as a grave threat to the continuance of diplomatic relations with France. It would, in the opinion of this government, herald the complete collaboration between Vichy and Germany.

GEN. JOHNSON: Will Fight 40-Hour Week Suspension

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON
WASHINGTON—Minx, nix the old witch winks. The fat begins to fly. Some such language was used in the old nursery rhyme to indicate that something big and bad was about to happen.

We know only one thing with certainty about this big bad thing today. It is that, because spring is well on its way, nearly every actor in today's tragedy must move.

The great puzzles are what is Britain going to do? Her people are pressing for an offensive. What does Japan plan? Time works against her. She must act. Hitler is in much the same position as Japan.

How about the polyglot population of India?

Will China go into an effective offensive or wait to watch developments?

How will Russia handle her two fronts—one in East Asia and one facing Hitler?

Above all, what are we going to do to make effective the terrific number of billions we are expending in preparation?

Nobody knows the answer to these questions not even as the time for action narrows to a matter of a few weeks.

But there are certain facts so well within the knowledge of any military student and based on other facts so widely publicized that there can be no new harm in discussing them.

We are committed to some kind of offensive. That means fighting overseas.

During World War One we used to figure on 18 to 25 tons of ship-

CHARGES MOBILE 'HOUSES' SPREAD HAVOC IN OHIO

Health Director Says War Work Hit; Cites Recent Clean-up at Bucyrus.

(By United Press)
COLUMBUS—Mobile houses of prostitution, moving from one defense center to another, are accelerating the spread of venereal diseases and are costing Ohio war industries thousands of man hours of work, the Ohio health department revealed today.

"Venereal infection is causing a tremendous loss of time both to industry and the military effort," Dr. R. H. Markwith, state health director, said. "These trailer prostitutes have struck at almost every defense center in the state as well as at several military camps."

The state health department in cooperation with local officials had nearly succeeded in curbing "the old line houses" in larger cities, Dr. Markwith said. "When suddenly we realized we had an even worse problem on our hands, the problem of the trailer prostitute."

He said that local authorities, the only enforcement agencies with the power to control prostitution, had succeeded recently in closing bordellos at Steubenville, Bucyrus, Sandusky, Hamilton, Cleveland, Columbus and Youngstown.

"These seven cities were probably the worst in the state but Cleveland was surprisingly clean for its size," Dr. Markwith said. "Of the seven, Steubenville and Sandusky were in the worst condition as far as prostitution is concerned."

Control of trailer prostitution in defense areas, he said, was "virtually impossible" for local agencies because in most instances the trailers are kept well outside city limits and beyond the control of local law enforcement bodies.

"To make matters worse, these trailer camps have been supplemented by the use of deserted farm houses also outside of local jurisdictions," Dr. Markwith said. "In several instances groups of prostitutes have gone into defense centers and rented abandoned farm houses."

"We are convinced that prostitution in Ohio is controlled by a national ring with a branch office in the state which ingeniously dispatches women to the proper areas at the proper time," Dr. Markwith said. "As an example, you will find very little prostitution in defense areas a few days after pay day."

BARKLEY HITS LAW TO CURB WAR PROFITS

Administration Prepares For Last Ditch Stand; Favors Tax on War Income.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—The administration gave clear indication today that it would fight to the last ditch against any moves to suspend the 40-hour week law or to curb war profits except through taxation.

Senate Democratic Leader Barkley told reporters prior to a scheduled White House conference today on the legislative program that he was opposed to enactment now of any restrictive labor measures.

Moreover, Barkley said he favored attempting to recapture excessive war profits by high taxation such as the treasury has suggested rather than through a flat limitation of 6 per cent, a method the house approved when it amended a pending $18,000,000,000 military appropriation bill.

Barkley said suspension of the 40-hour week law was likely to cause "chaos" in war industries. He added that he would continue to oppose efforts to freeze working conditions in strike-bound plants taken over by the government.

Contending that most war industries were operating far in excess of 40 hours a week, Barkley said the only question involved was whether employees were to receive time and a half for work over that period.

This time and a half, he said, represented about a 10 per cent increase in pay over normal wages. He added that there had been an approximate increase of 15 per cent in the cost of living.

"If you take away that pay increase," he declared, "you are going to have demands all over the country for readjustment of wage scales. That is likely to bring chaos into a management-labor situation that has become relatively quiet in the last few months."

He said further that war contracts had been made by the government on the basis of overtime payments to obtain needed production speed. If labor loses its overtime pay, contractors are likely to profit that much more, Barkley said.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

My Ouya board tells me that this is going to be one of Broadway's biggest summers in years and years, with the usual vacation time groanings of the theater men and night club owners reduced to a minimum.

Indications pointing to a boom in the bright light zone are the thousands of soldiers who will continue to pour into Gotham on week-ends, the curtain men of automobile travel (and the end of all those people who say "Vacation? Oh, we just get into the car and drive!") and the restrictions on coastal resorts imposed by submarine scares.

As a result, many of the night clubs that usually fade voluntarily from the midnight scene about June are liable to stay open to accommodate the (they hope) things, and the theaters will be playing to seats of customers all through the hot months.

This arrangement seems sensible to me. New York is a pretty town — Summer, Autumn, Winter and Spring, baby.

I can't remember the day when the Paramount clock corresponded with the time on my wrist-watch, and no amount of effort on my part (for Paramount's evidently seems to be able to reconcile them).

I've been wondering for three years about the identity of that fellow who always telephones anonymously when Gershwin is in town and announces that he has just observed her enjoying tea and scones, or crumpets and marmalade, at a Central Park South cafe. I don't know whether he is a Garbo "diver" by trade or a queer sign of long-deceased shows. "The Lady Comes Across" display on the 44th Street theater. The show ran two days, but the sign has had a run of four months. I wonder what's happened to Mussolini? Don't hear much of him these days.

FATHER HUNTED IN SON'S DEATH

Mother Finds Body of Child in Basement; Police Discover Note.

(By Associated Press)
ALLENTOWN, Pa. — Police Chief Arthur V. Yohe asked police in three states today to search for the father of a two-year-old boy whose hanged body was found hanging from a water pipe in the cellar of his home.

Yohe said Mrs. Ralph Gavornik found the body of her son, Edward, last night when she returned from a hairdresser's. A stained axe lay near the body.

Coroner Alexander M. Peters of Lehigh county said he found this note tied on the body:

"All I could bring is hell to anyone. My wife is the best in the world and the boys."

Mrs. Gavornik said her husband, a 35-year-old railroad employee, had not worked for two days because of illness. Yesterday, she said, he told her "why don't you go to the hairdresser today and don't come back until 9 o'clock."

She said he gave another son, Bobby, 10, money to go to the movies. Mrs. Gavornik told police the door was barred when she returned home. When she forced her way into the house she found a note which read "the baby will go to heaven, thank God. I can not explain."

Hollywood Shocked As Ayres Refuses To Fight For U. S.

(By International News Service)
HOLLYWOOD — Departure of film star Lew Ayres to a camp for conscientious objectors in Oregon struck Hollywood like a bombshell today.

On every studio lot, in every swank night club and wherever screen notables gather the actor's refusal to fight for his country was the No. 1 topic of conversation.

Ayres, who became famous 12 years ago as the quiet hero in the memorable "All Quiet on the Western Front," flagged a Southern Pacific train in the suburbs to start his journey to the objectors' camp at Cascade Locks, Ore.

Intimates of the 33-year-old actor expressed complete surprise at his action. Ayres passed his army physical examination Jan. 19 with flying colors. There were many in Hollywood who believed that the actor's refusal to shoulder a gun had written an abrupt finis to his film career. Some attributed his decision to the deep impression made upon him by the role he enacted in the "All Quiet" movie.

He told his draft board that war was abhorrent to him and that he could not conscientiously bear arms.

A. H. Poir, head of Ayres' draft board, described the actor as "quite a philosopher," and said that on the basis of Ayres' description of his personal beliefs the draft board had no other alternative than to classify him as a conscientious objector.

"He was not a Quaker or a member of any other religious organization," said Poir. "But he did have a kind of religion of his own."

Ayres, now 33, had attained some prominence a decade and a half ago in juvenile parts, but he skyrocketed to fame in the "All Quiet" role. For years he never approached the popularity he attained in this movie, but recently his career again had been attracting attention because of his lead role in the "Dr. Kildare" series. He also has been a successful director.

WATER CUT OFF

Service to Schools and Plants Stopped at St. Marys.

ST. MARYS, O.—(AP)—City Service Director W. R. Cook today ordered water cut off from all manufacturing plants and schools in an attempt to isolate the cause of a mysterious ailment which he said had stricken at least 40 persons.

Cook said he was "not at all certain" that the blame was in the water supply, but had ordered analyses.

The city's entire system of mains was drained last night, Cook said, and water shut off from factories and schools, and supplied only to residential sections.

At Columbus, State Health Director H. R. Markwith said he had not been advised fully of the situation, but was dispatching men to St. Marys. The ailment affected the intestinal tract, Dr. Markwith said.

OPA Raps Razor Blade Hoarders, Sees No Shortage

WASHINGTON — (INS) — OPA leveled its guns on razor blade hoarders today, asserting that fears of a shortage are completely unfounded.

A "run" on razor blade counters began last week following the war production board's order curtailing 1942 production.

Dan A. West, director of the consumer division of the office of price administration, said, however, that a completely adequate supply of blades will be manufactured this year.

"People who rush to buy razor blades are hoarders," he said. "They are performing a distinctly selfish and unpatriotic act. Hoarding anything in wartime is dangerous and disloyal and in this case there isn't even a shortage."

GEN. JOHNSON: Will Fight 40-Hour Week Suspension

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON
WASHINGTON—“Alas, alas the old witch winks. The fat begins to fry.”

Some such language was used in the old nursery rhyme to indicate that something big and bad was about to happen.

We know only one thing with certainty about this big bad thing today. It is that, because spring is well on its way, nearly every actor in today's tragedy must move.

The great puzzles are what is Britain going to do? Her people are pressing for an offensive.

What does Japan plan? Time works against her. She must act. Hitler is in much the same position as Japan.

How about the polyglot population of India?

Will China go into an effective offensive or wait to watch developments?

How will Russia handle her two fronts—one in East Asia and one facing Hitler?

Above all, what are we going to do to make effective the terrible number of billions we are expending in preparation?

Nobody knows the answer to these questions not even as the time for action narrows to a matter of a few weeks.

But there are certain facts so well within the knowledge of any military student and based on other facts so widely publicized that there can be no new harm in discussing them.

We are committed to some kind of offensive. That means fighting overseas.

During World War One we used to figure on 18 to 25 tons of shipping to transport a soldier with equipment to battlefields not more than 3,000 miles away—including submarine losses. It required four tons constantly on duty supplying them.

For distances from two to nearly four times as great, it is not necessary to multiply these figures by two or four but they must be much increased—especially when we do not have practically absolute command of the seas.

To get an AEF of 1,000,000 men to Europe would require about 20,000,000 tons of shipping and there are those who say that 4,000,000 rather than 1,000,000 men would be needed to attack Germany effectively—from 4,000,000 to 16,000,000 tons of shipping for supply alone, and 20 to 80 million tons to get them there.

The number of tons of shipping we have, after considering losses and new launchings, has not been published and cannot be used but it is a matter of common knowledge that, at the end of 1941, we had only about 8,000,000 tons and not half of these were available for overseas transport and supply of troops.

Considering all these figures, tricky as they are, one may not be able to tell what we are going to do this year, but it should not be too hard to say what we are not going to do.

Our shortest and best protected ocean route is to Britain where there are bases and other facilities. Whatever AEF we send abroad must be to England and not to the Orient, and it can't be more than a few divisions. The facts speak for themselves.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

My Outing board tells me that this is going to be one of Broadway's biggest summers in years and years, with the usual vacation time grooming of the theater men and night club owners reduced to a minimum.

Indications pointing to a boom in the bright light zone are the thousands of soldiers who will continue to pour into Gotham on week-ends, the curfew of automobiles travel (and the end of all those people who say "Vacation? Oh, we just get into the car and drive") and the restrictions on coastal resorts imposed by submarine scares.

As a result, many of the night clubs that usually fade voluntarily from the midnight scene about June are liable to stay open to accommodate the (they hope) things, and the theaters will be playing to seats of customers all through the hot months.

This arrangement seems sensible to me. New York is a pretty nice town—Summer, Autumn, Winter and Spring, baby.

I can't remember the day when the Paramount clock corresponded with the time on my wrist-watch and no amount of effort on my part (or Paramount's) evidently seems to be able to reconcile them.

I've been wondering for three years about the identity of that fellow who always, telephone, anonymously when Gerbo is in town and announces that he has just observed her enjoying tea and scones, or crumpets and marmalade, at a Central Park South cafe. I don't know whether he is a Garbo "diver" by trade or whether he just spends all his afternoons in that cafe. He's always hung up before I can ask...

I've found the perfect way to go daffy: read, or listen to the prognostications of six military and naval analysts in the same day.

Put it down to nostalgia, or a taste for the escapist, but I'm right in the mood for one of those swirling, implausible adventure movies—the kind that takes place in Gaulstark and involves plenty of swordplay and the tenderness of Zenda's stuff, that for me...

New York theater managers ought to get together and make it compulsory to take down the marque signs of long-deceased shows. I'm thinking at the moment of "The Lady Comes Across" display on the 44th Street theater. This show ran two days, but the sign has had a run of four months. I wonder what's happened to Musolini? Don't hear much of him these days.

CHARGES MOBILE 'HOUSES' SPREAD HAVOC IN OHIO

Health Director Says War Work Hit; Cites Recent Clean-up at Bucyrus.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Mobile houses of prostitution, moving from one defense center to another, are accelerating the spread of venereal diseases and are costing Ohio war industries thousands of man hours of work, the Ohio health department revealed today.

"Venereal infection is causing a tremendous loss of time both to industry and the military effort," Dr. R. H. Markwith, state health director, said. "These trailer prostitutes have struck at almost every defense center in the state as well as at several military camps."

The state health department in cooperation with local officials had nearly succeeded in curbing "the old line houses" in larger cities, Dr. Markwith said, "when suddenly we realized we had an even worse problem on our hands, the problem of the trailer prostitute."

He said that local authorities, the only enforcement agencies with the power to control prostitution, had succeeded recently in closing bordellos at Steubenville, Bucyrus, Sandusky, Hamilton, Cleveland, Columbus and Youngstown.

"Those seven cities were probably the worst in the state but Cleveland was surprisingly clean for its size," Dr. Markwith said.

"The seven, Steubenville and Sandusky were in the worst condition as far as prostitution is concerned."

Control of trailer prostitution in defense areas, he said, was "virtually impossible" for local agencies because in most instances the trailers are kept well outside city limits and beyond the control of local law enforcement bodies.

"To make matters worse these trailer camps have been supplemented by the use of deserted farm houses also outside of local jurisdictions," Dr. Markwith said.

"In several instances groups of prostitutes have gone into defense centers and rented abandoned farm houses."

"We are convinced that prostitution in Ohio is controlled by a national ring with a branch office in the state which ingeniously dispatches women to the proper areas at the proper time," Dr. Markwith said.

"As an example, you will find very little prostitution in defense areas a few days after pay day."

Now, I have, I admit, always been strongly against hearsay except on girls in oil paintings, but the exigencies of war change many things, including women's minds, and I am beginning to wonder if whippers might not be a pretty good idea. Not those long cravats—I won't hold still for those—but the neat, short, pointed, rather Mephistophelian kind usually accompanied by a wicked gleam in the eye and a handkerchief tucked up the sleeve. Vincent Price is wearing a rather devilish one, and I saw a coal-black chin adornment at El Morocco the other evening that was not bad, not bad.

In fact, I think in the interests of patriotism I could become rather fond of beards, so long as they were properly landscaped.

Put it down to nostalgia, or a taste for the escapist, but I'm right in the mood for one of those swirling, implausible adventure movies—the kind that takes place in Gaulstark and involves plenty of swordplay and the tenderness of Zenda's stuff, that for me...

FATHER HUNTED IN SON'S DEATH

Mother Finds Body of Child in Basement; Police Discover Note.

(By Associated Press)

ALLENTOWN, Pa. — Police Chief Arthur V. Yohe asked police in three states today to search for the father of a two-year-old boy whose hacked body was found hanging from a water pipe in the cellar of his home.

Yohe said Mrs. Ralph Gavornik found the body of her son, Edward, last night when she returned from a hairdresser's. A stained axe lay near the body.

Coroner Alexander M. Peters of Lehigh county said he found this note tied on the body.

"All I could bring is hell to anybody. My wife is the best in the world and the boys."

Mrs. Gavornik said her husband, a 35-year-old railroad employee, had not worked for two days because of illness. Yesterday, she said, he told her "why don't you go to the hairdresser today and don't come back until 9 o'clock."

She said he gave another son, Bobby, 10 cents to go to the movies. Mrs. Gavornik told police the door was barred when she returned home. When she forced her way into the house she found a note which read "the body will go to heaven, thank God. I can not explain."

Hollywood Shocked As Ayres Refuses To Fight For U. S.

(By International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD — Departure of film star Lew Ayres to a camp for conscientious objectors in Oregon struck Hollywood like a bombshell today.

On every studio lot, in every swank night club and wherever screen notables gather the actor's refusal to fight for his country was the No. 1 topic of conversation.

Ayres who became famous 12 years ago as the soldier hero in the memorable "All Quiet On The Western Front" flagged a Southern Pacific train in the suburbs to start his journey to the objectors' camp at Cascade Locks, Ore.

Intimates of the 33-year-old actor expressed complete surprise at his action. Ayres passed his army physical examination Jan. 19 with flying colors. There were many in Hollywood who believed that the actor's refusal to shoulder a gun had written an abrupt finish to his film career. Some attributed his decision to the deep impression made upon him by the role he enacted in the "All Quiet" movie.

He told his draft board that war was abhorrent to him and that he could not conscientiously bear arms.

A H. Peer, head of Ayres' draft board, described the actor as "quite a philosopher," and said that on the basis of Ayres' description of his personal beliefs the draft board had no other alternative than to classify him as a conscientious objector.

"He was not a Quaker or a member of any other religious organization," said Peer, "but he did have a kind of religion of his own."

Ayres, now 33, had attained some prominence a decade and a half ago in juvenile parts, but he sky-rocketed to fame in the "All Quiet" role. For years he never approached the popularity he attained in this movie, but recently his career again had been attracting attention because of his lead role in the "Dr. Kildare" series. He also has been a successful director.

U. S., British Merchantmen Torpedoed Somewhere In Atlantic.

(By United Press)

MIAMI, Fla. — The crew of a German submarine which took two survivors aboard was credited today with sinking two Allied merchantmen.

The torpedoing of a small American vessel and a medium-sized British ship were announced yesterday in Washington. The American merchantman was sunk without warning off the Atlantic coast of Cuba March 12 and the British ship was torpedoed and shelled indiscriminately "in the Atlantic" three days later. It was believed the same submarine made both attacks.

Thirty-one survivors of the American ship were brought here from Cuba. Charles Navier, a Negro messman from the Dominican republic, was the only crew member lost. Forty-five British crewmen were taken to Fort Lauderdale from Nassau. Three of their shipmates were lost.

Per H. Janssen, 50, of Newport News, Va., fireman aboard the American vessel, was pulled from the water by the U-boat's crew and rode on the craft's deck for about five minutes until he was transferred to one of his ship's life-boats.

URGE ADOPTION OF OHIO PLAN

Merchants Council Asks U. S. To Follow State's Sales Tax Policy.

(By International News Service) COLUMBUS—Faced with the prospect of a federal sales tax or other widely based levy to curb buying power, the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants today urged its fight for the Ohio plan to Washington.

According to George V. Sheridan, executive secretary of the council, two of its officers were to appear today before the house ways and means committee in support of a sales tax only if it follows the Ohio program.

"There should be some widely based levy," Sheridan said, "or we are going to find ourselves faced with a limited stock of goods and a lot of money."

"If there must be a federal sales tax we don't want to see a clumsy program that imposes too great a burden on the consumer and reduces his buying power unnecessarily."

Sheridan said that under the Ohio plan whereby the merchant pays the tax in advance by purchase of stamps, the average rate of tax is almost exactly three per cent as specified by statute.

It was recorded in this space not so many days ago that Mansfielders Ed Chatlain of Wittenberg and Huber McCuen of Ashland college, spent much of their spare time in the naval physical training division at Norfolk, Va., talking over old times in the old home town.

That's all over now. If Ed does any talking on that subject, he's talking to himself. McCuen is no longer there with his share of the conversation.

Visiting his family in Mansfield, Huber reports he has just been transferred to the physical staff for naval cadets at Notre Dame.

Well, well. So Chatlain says he never dreamed when he paid to see Bob Feller pitch last summer that he'd be playing ball with Feller inside a year?

He's got nothing on McCuen. When Huber set an all-time record at Ashland college for quick bounce from a bucketball game on personal fouls, he never dreamed that he'd be teaching the famed Irish of Notre Dame how to be athletes, within a year.

Believe in stars? Indeed they do. When things they never dreamed, come true.

McCuen arrived in town Sunday noon, and will probably be here until next Monday, getting a long shore-leave because of the fact that the program at Notre Dame will not open until April 15.

He'll be one of eight boys from Norfolk in charge of physical training, the group including Frankie Gaul, former Notre Dame quarterback, who'll be able to show the boys around South Bend.

"The boys we'll work with, will be our superior officers in a short time," Huber explains. "They'll be taking work in preparation for an ensign's commission. After they get all the training Notre Dame has to offer, they'll go on to Northwestern to complete the course."

"We really had a great group of athletes at Norfolk," says McCuen. "All the same type of fellows, most of them coaches or athletes just out of college, and all ready for fun in the little time we had for fun."

"The place is full of All-American football players, some of whom were being shipped to Great Lakes. And the going to be your football team next fall, Great Lakes. All of em All-Americans."

"George McAfee, the great Chicago Bear, back here, reported at Norfolk just a few days ago, and so did Tom Kirkland and Jim Daniels from Ohio State. Tom told us he'd spent a lot of time in Mansfield with Johnny Hallaborn."

McCuen indicated he isn't going to be content with just being a call-the-mentor in this war effort. "They're going to give 30 per cent of us commissions, and that's what I'm going to start working on right now," he declared. "I'll get it. I think I'll stay in the navy a while, war or no war."

Brown Reviews Prospects

Finds Buck Grid Squad Under 20-Year Average.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State university's gridiron coach, youthful Paul E. Brown, looked back today at yesterday's opening spring practice, and then jotted down a list of assets and liabilities for the Bucks' 10-game campaign next fall.

The list went something like this:

1—Fifty-five candidates, 35 of them freshmen and 11 lettermen.

2—The squad averages under 20 years of age, a year and a half under the 1941 figure.

3—The squad averages 12 pounds per man less than the 1941 team which won six, tied one and lost one.

4—Seventeen of the 53 are registered and subject to draft, 11 of them veterans.

5—The coaching talent is depleted. Trevor Rees, Fritz Heister and Eddie Bickie being in the navy.

6—Leon Schoenbaum, regular end, has dropped from the squad, while Les Horvath, fleet halfback, has shifted to the dentistry college and may not play.

7—Only two of the lettermen—Don McCafferty and Bill Vickroy—are seniors, and neither has been a starter.

8—Ernest R. (Ernie) Godfrey, member of the coaching staff from 1929 to 1940, but dropped when Brown took over last season, has been "drafted" to lend a helping hand. Godfrey will see that the athletes are scholastically eligible, that jobs are provided for the ones who need them, and will help this spring with the centers and place-kickers. Next fall he'll assist with the freshman coaching.

9—The new war time, providing more daylight, will allow practice sessions to be extended daily, giving the squad a chance to work into better shape.

The spring sessions will wind up with the annual clinic game May 16, to be attended by the state's high school mentors.

"By that time, maybe we'll have an idea what we have in the line of talent," Brown said, "but we may lose everyone during the summer, so we'll just have to wait until fall to be certain about anything. All the other colleges will be hit as hard as Ohio, however, so I guess we'll get along."

Bobo Slams Lammin' Lem

Stops Cleveland Heavy on First Round Kayo.

By DUKE MORAN

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Harry Bobo, 21-year-old Negro heavy, weighed in today as a result of Hammerin' Harry's spectacular, one-round knockout of Lem Franklin.

Harry earned his chance by clambering from the floor last night to knock out the Cleveland heavy in 10 of the opening heat of a 10-round bout. Bobo weighed 209 1/2 against Franklin's 196 1/2.

Bobo's feat exploded what Lem intended to be the first start in a comeback after Bob Pastor lashed him in eight rounds last month while Franklin was riding an astonishing record of triumphs.

An all-time record indoor crowd for Pittsburgh, more than 7,000, paid a new high of $23,436.50 to see the fight.

Bobo who wants to be a minister and finds his favorite diversion in the Bible, looked hopeless for the first minute against the wild socking Franklin. He back peddled frantically. Frank came out swinging a murderous right. But after being dumped to a three-count Bob shifted conditionally and landed a double salvo of left and right hooks on Lem's chin flooring him for a count of eight. Lem took another nine count before he went down to stay.

Bob's next fight probably will be with Ample Abe Simon, Joe Louis' victim last week.

The young Negro said, however, I hope they get me Bob Pastor.

START NORTH

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The New York Yankees broke camp today and entrained for Daytona Beach, first stop on their long trek to the Yankee Stadium in New York's Bronx. The club leaves camp with the poorest spring record in 18 years.

WALKER LONES

BALTIMORE (AP)—Tony Shuc- co, 186, Boston, nicknamed Buddy Walker, 198 1/2, Columbus, O., in his 12-round bout here last had had things started slow but had things virtually his own way after the sixth round.

PRACTICE BUNTING

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP)—Ray Blades, former St. Louis Cardinal manager who now coaches the Cincinnati Reds, is succeeding in practice for the Red Sox. "I'd like to see him do it," says Blades.

They're Aiming at Pirate Outfield Jobs

Ed Stewart, Johnny Barrett, Jimmy Wasdell, Johnny Wyrostek, Cully Rickard

Five-outfielders, three of them rookies, are in the race for one of the outfield jobs with the Pittsburgh Pirates this year. Vince DiMaggio, Bob Elliott and Maurice Van Robays were the regular gardeners last year. The quintet aiming at regular work above includes Ed Stewart, Johnny Barrett, Jimmy Wasdell, Johnny Wyrostek and Cully Rickard.

CLEVELAND (AP)—A match between Anton Christoforidis, former world light-heavyweight champion, and Jimmy Reeves, was announced today as a 10-round prelim to the Bob Pastor-Jimmy Bivins bout at the Arena April 17.

For a somewhat involved case history, Chris beat Reeves in their fight for light-heavy honors and then went on to smother Melio Bestina for the title, but then lost the crown to champion Joe Lesnevich. Lesnevich, in turn, got himself beaten nicely by Jimmy Bivins. Who is going to meet Pastor on the main card.

BETTINA FAVORED

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Melo Bestina, the southpaw who's clamoring for a bout with Joe Louis, ruled a three-to-one favorite to beat Joe Lesnevich, a Philadelphia heavyweight, in a 10-rounder at the Arena tonight.

Women In War Work!

Women's Army Swing Into Real War Tasks

When the first bombs fell upon Pearl Harbor a new army sprang into action. It was the Woman's Army. It was the kind of an army that launched almost 100 per cent into first aid training, enlisted for all kinds of volunteer civilian defense service and rolled up its sleeves to get machine shop training in the defense vocational classes.

The hand that rocked the cradle is now becoming adept at operating a lathe, piloting a plane and not only at driving an automobile in the motor corps but being able to fix the mechanism if anything goes wrong.

Hundreds of Mansfield and Richland county women are preparing for war-time emergency service by enrolling with the Red Cross and Civilian Defense for home nursing and Nurse's Aide classes, and production for the armed forces and civilian relief.

Many of them are working in industry that is expected to claim 4,000,000 women throughout the country before the year ends. In Mansfield, women are employed in making government tires and various kinds of equipment for the armed forces including carrying straps for knapsacks, wire cutter's bags, pouches for signal corps, knives and pliers and binocular cases.

They work around-the-clock in six-hour shifts or longer while their potential sisters in industry train at the Mansfield Senior High school vocational department to be acetylene welders, machine shop operators, motor mechanics and machine part inspectors equipped with a knowledge of blue print reading.

At Municipal Airport the women are preparing to "keep 'em flying." Private pilots, student pilots, observers and navigators are preparing themselves for duty in the event of emergency while clerks and stenographers give volunteer service to keeping up the records.

The Red Cross women's motor corps is actively engaged in service for the county chapter and is now completing a course in motor mechanics that will equip the drivers to cope with their own car trouble. This group of women has speeded the sewing and knitting production of the Red Cross since last fall by delivering supplies to women throughout the county.

Scores of graduate nurses and home women are enrolled in the expansive program designed to adequately equip hospitals and emergency stations in the time of crisis and to instruct the housewife in

Gifts for the Man In Service

If you want to send a gift to your favorite soldier, DON'T send him pajamas. Most soldiers sleep in their underwear.

DO send him stationery printed with the name of his outfit. He'll love it.

DON'T send him bedroom slippers. Soldiers put on their shoes when they get up. DO send him a small portable radio, or a wrist watch with red second hand, unbreakable crystal, radium dial and fabric strap.

These are a few of the pointers picked up after a survey of the service by the new service men's gift shop of Saks Fifth Avenue, New York.

Other tips for fond wives, mothers and girl friends are:

All service men like toilet articles and razor kits, wallets and small leather zipper bags. Most prefer cigarette cases of metal or plastic into which the package can be slipped intact. All want wooden clogs or sandals which can be worn in the showers. Every service man needs bath towels. Many want sterling silver identification discs, which must be engraved with full name, service number, branch of service and date of last tetanus injection. Issue discs are made of monel metal, and many men are allergic to this.

They all like small sewing kits, compact shoe polishing kits and waterproof tobacco pouches.

Airmen need polarized glasses, fountain pens with expansion compartment for changes of altitude.

Navy officers need cuff links engraved with insignia, tie clasps to match, thin black mercerized cotton socks and white rayon knit underwear.

the home care of the sick in order to relieve the pressure at hospitals. A corps of volunteer Nurse's Aids is devoting 80 hours to hospital training to equip themselves for work on the floor while the graduate nurses themselves—141 of them—are organized for service when the need arises.

Every woman is showing interest in the county-wide nutrition program being organized by Richland County Council of Nutrition for Defense to spread the gospel of healthful foods for the family table and the bread-winner's lunch box.

Twenty-hour courses under trained home economists are being set up by the Council and they are available to every woman and group just for the asking.

Garden women, both veterans and "freshmen," are planning Victory gardens to meet with the government's appeal for one and one-third million more vegetable gardens. Mansfield garden clubs are sponsoring the local projects and hundreds of women are engaged in spreading the appeal to all ages are represented in the city and county's war-time effort. The Girl Scouts and Junior Y.W.C.A. members represent the younger element out to do their bit for Red Cross and Civilian defense.

The Girl Scouts are preparing to take their place in the home, day nursery and canteen through training courses in child care, nutrition and first aid classes. The ability to serve in this line releases mothers for other war efforts and will be later valuable to the community in case of disaster.

Meanwhile a broad educational program designed to keep the citizenry informed is being conducted by both the Richland County League of Women Voters and the Mansfield Public library, one of the institutions in the country designated by the Office of Civilian Defense as a War Information Center.

The Library is prepared to disseminate information on all phases of civilian defense and is supplementing that information with all titles and other material pertinent to the theater of war at large.

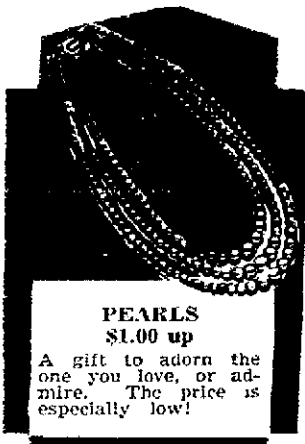

Members of the League of Women Voters have registered for volunteer service by listing the hours that they will be available and a special committee has been appointed to go before other groups and organizations with discussions of crucial problems.

In this work the League is acting in line with the policy of the national League—a policy that should be adopted by every citizen—"to understand our dem-cratic form of government and participate actively in its preservation."

Women Help To 'Keep 'Em Flying'

The women are helping to "Keep 'Em Flying"—but literally.

Some of them already have their planes off the ground and ready to be commanded for war-time missions. Others are studying to be observers while still others—the women behind the women who fly—are giving hours of volunteer service to keep up clerical records after their own working hours are over.

All of them are learning military courtesy and discipline and once a week march shoulder to shoulder in infantry drill with their fellow workers. Infantry drill is held once a week at the state armory under the leadership of officers of Company F, Ohio State Guard, and eventually the women will receive commissions from the Civil Air Patrol.

One-sixth of Mansfield's membership in the CAP is composed of women flyers, observers, navigators and clerks. Two of the fliers are private pilots holding licenses to carry passengers. Betty May Thompson, switchboard operator at City hall, who began flying merely as a hobby two years ago, has had 80 hours in the air.

Thelma Mae Kennedy, whose great ambition is to ferry bombers or be a flying instructor, has had 60 hours in the air and was the first woman at Mansfield Municipal Airport to receive a private pilot's license.

Although the student pilots, Mabel Domer and Betty Knowlton, will be limited to solo missions due to license restrictions for private pilots, Miss Thompson and Miss Kennedy, are qualified to carry both personnel and equipment.

Both private pilots can be called upon for reconnaissance flights and patrol missions in company with either navigators or observers.

The half-dozen observers now volunteering their services take the same course as the civilian pilots and they are currently enrolled in a 30-hour course held in weekly three-hour periods at John Simpson Junior high school.

Their chief function will be to assist the pilot in plotting and charting the course on a patrol mission and at all times to act as the "eyes" of the pilot.

Pilots and observers are required to obtain first aid certificates by taking the Red Cross training course and this applies to clerks and stenographers as well.

There are 14 young women now giving time to keeping up the records and files at the municipal airport after they leave their own desks at night.

The women fliers belong to the Mansfield squadron of the Civil Air Patrol under the command of Dr. L. D. Bonar.

See that all spices are kept tightly covered and stored away from light and heat.

Military Mode

This spring ensemble features the military mode. The outfit is of light gray tweed with a jacket ornamented by fringed tweed tassels at the shoulder line. The cavalry hat has an insignia of red felt and gold. The outfit will be shown at a New York style show.

Women Members in Civil Air Patrol

Helping to "Keep 'Em Flying" are the women in the Mansfield squadron of the Civil Air Patrol. Composing one-sixth of the squadron personnel, the women flyers, observers, clerks and stenographers are getting in practice for the primary by marching shoulder to shoulder with the men in infantry drill once a week. Veteran in the number of hours in the air is Private Pilot Betty May Thompson, switchboard operator at City hall. She's had 80 hours in the air. Three members of the observers' class that takes the same ground course as enrollees in the civ-

'PARTY PATRIOT' IDEA GIVES NEW TWIST TO WAR CONSERVING

What are Mansfield women contributing to the nation's war efforts?

Among numerous activities is participation in the plan introduced by the Teachers' Wives club last week. Clubs that agree to give up serving refreshments at their meetings and to use the money thus saved for purchase of war bonds, are to be known as "Party Patriots."

Slogan for the new, city-wide organization is "No food when you entertain—that money will buy a plane." Not only will the funds furnish the government with much-needed war materials, such action also will provide for future community needs. When the bonds mature, each club which contributes now, will have a voice in determining what civic project shall be given financial assistance.

"If any of the 'Party Patriots' prefer to contribute the money to an immediate cause, the Teachers' Wives will direct the funds to the proper channels.

Luncheons and dinner parties will not be affected by the plan. The "Party Patriots" will give up only the "between-meal" refreshments which are now being served at the majority of social gatherings.

First group to join the "Party Patriots" is the Mansfield Garden Study club. Other organizations plan to enroll soon. Additional information can be secured from any of the committee members who will also appear before clubs desiring a detailed explanation of the plan. Those who are organizing the "Party Patriots" are Mrs. H. D. Bishop, Mrs. Nelson Neff, Mrs. Dean Rex, Mrs. Harry Scoles, Mrs. George Harmony, Mrs. LeMoine Derr and Mrs. Edwin Cooper.

WASHING WOODWORK

Put a little turpentine in the soapy water used for cleaning varnished woodwork. A tablespoon for each four cups water is enough. Wash a small space at a time, rinse quickly and dry and then proceed with the rest of the woodwork.

DEFENSE SAVINGS

The old fashioned, cupboard "sugar bowl" for pennies has a new purpose in life — DEFENSE SAVINGS. Every penny in your purse, come evening, should find its way into the penny bank. Women's purses get too full anyway—we women have a habit of not emptying them of odds and ends. So lighten their bulging insides—and lighten Uncle Sam's job at the same time. Ten pennies—twenty-five pennies—means another Stamp to help stamp out the enemy.

CAMERA FANS

For those important pictures, enthusiastic amateur photographers who find their camera ground glass is too coarse for fine focusing, can get better results by rubbing a very little glycerine on the glass with a soft cloth. Be careful not to overdo it, as too much glycerine will make the glass transparent.

WASTE NOT

Perfume is getting more precious every day. One way to insure against wasting what evaporates is to tuck the bottles in the corner of your lingerie drawer. You'll be surprised how soon the fragrance has permeated your slips and nightgowns.

Motor Corps Members Are Busy Folks

The Richland county Red Cross Women's Motor Corps is equipping itself to meet all emergencies but it isn't waiting until disaster strikes to serve in the county's war effort.

Since its organization last fall the Motor Corps has served as the go between for the Red Cross Production Center and the hundreds of Richland county women engaged in the knitting and sewing program of the organization.

It has also shuttled the holiday favors made by Junior Red Cross Councils to brighten hospital trays from the local Red Cross headquarters to the various institutions throughout the county. And it has distributed the 100 per cent emergency war fund posters to all firms and organizations making "all-out" contributions.

In addition to this initial service the Motor Corps has also furnished drivers each week to transport the blind from their homes to the Salvation Army citadel and back again for the regular Thursday period of recreation.

The next piece of work on the corps' schedule is the transportation service the drivers will render to blood donors when the Cleveland mobile blood unit visits here in May.

But the work of the Motor Corps isn't limited to commuting between headquarters and a given place and the drivers simply don't become members overnight. They qualify for their place by taking required courses of training in first aid map reading and motor mechanics.

Right now the corps members are soiling their manicles by first hand acquaintance with spark plugs, fuel pumps and gas lines, wiring and radiators as they round-out their training in the motor mechanics' course.

The instruction is given at the county garage with Gilbert Logan, county mechanic, in charge, and it follows sessions spent pouring over county and city road maps and being instructed as to traffic regulations.

County engineer's office, the state highway patrol and city traffic officers co-operated with the Motor Corps in its training course. Carl Stough, assistant superintendent of maintenance showed the corps how to read county maps and road markings. W. C. Smith, state highway patrol gave the instruction on highway driving regulations and O. D. Fair, city patrolman pointed up the knowledge of the corps on city traffic rules.

Although the Motor Corps was organized several months before the first bombs fell on Pearl Harbor it was not until shortly after that date that the membership reached the quota of membership sought by the Red Cross.

Women Enlist In Motor Corps

The women of the Red Cross Motor Corps, organized last fall, expect to know Mansfield and Richland county roads with their eyes shut by the time their course on road location and map reading is completed. Although the corps has not finished its training it has been called upon for service since its organization and has speeded up the production of sewed and knitted garments by delivering materials throughout the county. At present the members are learning the intricacies of motor mechanics at the county garage. In the top picture, Mrs. O. D. Fair, seated, captain of the team instructs three drivers on the use of road maps. Standing left to right are Miss Margaret Kuppinger, Miss Kathryn Pfeifer and Mrs. Earl Schaub. Another trio inspects a motor in the picture below. Shown left to right, Mrs. Otto Kline, Mrs. O. H. Schettler and Mrs. William DeHart.

Sixteen women were in the original Motor Corps class that signed for first aid training the initial course required by the national organization. The membership jumped to 34 after the first of the year when other women had finished first aid training and sought service in the Motor Corps. An advanced first aid course is also required before certificates can be obtained.

All service with the organization is purely voluntary with the membership furnishing their own cars, gas and uniforms.

Mrs. O. D. Fair is captain of the county corps and commands the service hours of the organization. Members file the number of hours they are available for service with Mrs. Fair and when a job needs to be done the captain simply notifies the person free during those hours.

20 Out Of 30 In Club Busy With Varied War Work

Attending first aid and nurses' aid classes is keeping 20 of the 30 members of the Round Table club busy during their spare time—and others are planning to join the nutrition class which will begin on April 23. Members of the Federation of Women are eligible to become members of this class which will meet every Thursday at 11 a. m. for ten weeks at the Women's Club.

Registrations for the nutrition class will be taken at the Federation tea on April 14 at the Women's Club and any time after that date until the first meeting of the group. Mrs. Phillip Wolfe, defense chairman of the club, announced that all members of the club are purchasing defense bonds and stamps. Mrs. George Anson is president of the group.

A. A. U. W. Starts Fast In War Work

Whenever and wherever Mansfield women are needed in industry and defense, the American Association of University Women can supply workers in many and varied fields.

Probably the first organization in the city to catalogue its members as to their capabilities and willingness to serve was the Mansfield branch of the A. A. U. W. In January, 1941, Miss Esther Barnett, social studies chairman for the group, started the registration. By February of the same year, nearly 100 local college women were catalogued. This file has been used many times since then and is now available to the local defense chairman, Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch.

This organization also took the lead in "Nutrition for Defense" plans. The need for the mother and homemaker in supplying adequate diets for children and adults was publicly recognized in January, 1941, with a program, "A. A. U. W. Women in These Times." Mrs. Charles Farry represented this phase of the subject in a round table discussion that included talks entitled, "Maintain A Normal Situation Among the Children; Democracy and Citizenship; The Importance of Women's Careers and Freedom of Speech and Press." These subjects were all discussed from the defense angle by competent persons.

In connection with "The First Line of Defense," a program on proper nutrition was planned in December by Mrs. H. E. Baer, home management supervisor for the Farm Security Administration. A qualified speaker, Dr. Helen Hunscher, head of the home economics department at Western Reserve university, told nearly 100 members and guests how vital proper food is to national defense.

Mrs. George W. Hypes, manager of the cafeterias in the public schools, is now serving on the Nutrition Council under the direction of Mrs. W. B. Ford and has helped to organize the nutrition classes that are beginning in many of the local women's groups. Many of the A. A. U. W. members who are home economics graduates are to be teachers of these classes.

In May, 1941, Mansfield college women contributed generously to the National A. A. U. W. War Refugee fund which has sent $35,500 to university women throughout the world to help them through difficult readjustments in war-torn countries. The most recent gift was $500 to the college women of the Philippine Islands.

They Headed AAUW's Red Cross Knitting Job

knitted and sewed by the A. A. U. W. Each pack contains two shirts, two sleepers, two rompers, 10 diapers, one snow suit and one knit set consisting of sweater, cap and mittens. The quota of toddlers' packs—2,000 pieces in all—was completed in four months and the articles have been sent to the Red Cross warehouses in Hoboken, N. J.

Women's Warned On Fire Hazards

It's easy to arm against fire from the skies. It's easy and necessary in these days of all-out war. Most important safeguard is the elimination of fire hazards around the home. Every housewife should know them.

The top of the house tops the list. Lightweight incendiary bombs sometimes penetrate no deeper than the roof. Sparks blown from faulty chimneys or outdoor bonfires may also light on the roof. To protect the home against such air-borne fires, every housewife should see to it at once that some fire-resistant material such as mineral-surfaced asphalt shingles, is laid over the old roof.

Next comes the attic where any accumulation of rubbish are the food of hungry flames. Waste paper, rags and old clothes should be stacked and sold to collectors. Even collections of empty glass jars, though not flammable, should be removed as they can seriously hamper the work of firemen trying to extinguish a blaze. All exposed attic woodwork should be protected with fire-retardant paint and a layer of dry sand sprinkled over the floor.

Dried out walls are fire-hazards, and a fresh coat of paint will give them protection. Trash piles in the yard, oil soaked rags in the garage and stocks of useless combustible material in the basement should all be cleared out.

During the summer of 1942 the A. A. U. W. co-operated with the Junior Chamber of Commerce committee in securing a training field and government funds to improve the municipal airport. Mrs. J. L. Zimmerman was representative for the local branch.

Actively co-operating with the local Red Cross chapter, University Women took over the cutting rooms each Wednesday during the summer months and recently completed the largest quota to be taken by any group in the city. Mrs. C. S. Kuntz and Mrs. Harold Burns were in charge. A First Aid course is now supplanting the sewing under Red Cross activities.

"A well informed organization is of value in any community." This is the purpose of most of the programs planned for the monthly meetings. The year book of A. A. U. W. shows that these women are hearing and discussing such subjects as "The First Line of Defense," "Behind Contemporary History," and "The Effect of War on American Fashion."

A current events study group led by Mrs Margaret Tinsley, history teacher at the Senior high school, dips deeply into the background of events leading up to today's headlines. The history and geography of Australia are under consideration at present.

DISCUSS EDUCATION
BOWLING GREEN—ONS— Adult Education and its Relation to the War will be discussed before a sectional meeting of the Ohio College Association in Columbus April 1 by Dean R. L. Carter, of the University of Toledo, and H. L. Ford, superintendent of schools at Fostoria. The announcement came from W. C. Jordan of the Bowling Green State university faculty.

"NUTRITION IS THE BEST HOME DEFENSE" — Says Mrs. Myrtle Hickman

Nationally famous lecturer and home economist who will preside next week at the

MANSFIELD NEWS-JOURNAL COOKING SCHOOL

Here are four sound arguments for "Mrs. America's" nutrition program. Family groups like this one are not worrying about vitamin values. It is the wise homemaker who knows that foods hold all the vitamins and minerals. She does the constructive planning that brings substantial dividends in health, efficiency and contentment.

Busy wives and mothers may depend on the time-saving Cooking School to keep them up-to-the-minute on household discoveries, food research and tested equipment. There is always new and exciting news in the homemaking profession. Come and listen to a trained specialist.

375 Scouts Take Varied Defense Jobs

Preparing to take their place on the home front and thereby free mothers and homemakers for war-time duties outside the home, Mansfield's 375 Girl Scouts—the citizens of tomorrow—are engaged in a broad program ranging from knitting afghans and rolling bandages to attending organized classes in child care, nutrition and first aid.

Not only do these special classes prepare the Scouts for work in the home but they also equip the future homemakers for duty in emergency kitchens, canteens and day-nurseries and to render first aid at the scene of accident.

Many of the Scouts are already putting their knowledge of child care into practice. They are looking after younger brothers and sisters while their mothers attend first aid classes or give other volunteer service. Some of them are also aiding to care for neighbor's children and to assist in church nurseries where children are supervised while their parents attend worship.

In the child care class, conducted at the Y. W. C. A. by Mrs. G. W. Weller, the Scouts were taught to be alert to the personal hygiene and health of the child and to handle such routine procedures as checking weights and inspecting throats.

Although the assistance Scouts would give in a day nursery would be directly supervised by an adult the class was taught the necessity of immediately informing the parents of a child or a superior should symptoms of illness be noted.

The principles of meal planning, marketing and actual food preparation were set forth in the nutrition course by Miss Pauline Schotfield, home service director for the Ohio Fuel Gas company.

Fifty girls were enrolled for the course that emphasized food values and showed the Scouts how to plan and prepare well-balanced meals for the average-size family and also for a large number of persons.

The Scouts learned that healthful food need not be expensive if chosen wisely and they were shown how to substitute cheese dishes, eggs and milk for meat. They were also taught that meat, fish or fowl should be served from four to six times a week and that the daily menu should include three servings of vegetables, one green or yellow; two servings of fruit, one citrus or of tomatoes, and two servings of whole-grained or enriched bread and cereal.

Although first aid is a regular Girl Scout requirement the number of Scouts that just completed the standard course is indicative of the tremendous interest in first aid throughout the entire city.

Seventy Scouts, aged 12 to 17 years, were enrolled for two classes taught by Mrs. L. N. Bryant, although some of the Brownies, the youngest Scouts, will not be eligible for Red Cross certificates.

First aid training has equipped the Scouts not only to help others in time of accident but to help themselves. They know how to stop bleeding, apply bandages and splints, give artificial respiration, properly transport a victim, and can take their place among other first aid workers if the emergency arises.

Girl Scouting's place in war time was vividly depicted at the 30th anniversary program celebrated by the Scouts last week. All projects and activities were demonstrated and dramatized under the supervision of troop leaders and Scout executives headed by Mrs. John W. Graham, Girl Scout commissioner, and Miss Eleanor Bond, executive secretary.

Help Save on Cleaning Bills

When clothes go to the cleaner, tell him what caused the spots and stains—if you know. This will mean longer life for the garment, by eliminating experimentation with various solvents.

Then put all the dollars you'll save into DEFENSE SAVINGS STAMPS. Also remind your husband to allot part of his salary every pay day to his company's Pay-Roll Savings Plan.

Girl Scouts Do Their Part, Too

Classes in child care are preparing Mansfield Girl Scouts to take their place in the home and day nursery thereby releasing mothers for volunteer war service or industrial work. The Scouts are taught not only to amuse the children but to be

FRINGE IN STYLE

Fringe and tassels of the upholstery variety trim many of the spring creations. In one case fringe forms flaming epaulettes on a navy suit dress. Tassels are used instead of buttons to finish the closings of little jackets.

Fringe circles the hiplines of slender dresses and outlines low yokes and deep necklines.

Sliced Brazil nuts or cashews give a nutty topping to escalloped dishes such as corn, potatoes, tomatoes, celery, or fish.

Auxiliary Hard At Work In Defense Effort

When the Japs "started something" at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, members of Auxiliary 100 to the Sons of Union Veterans lost no time in getting busy making various articles to be distributed in war-stricken areas.

Since that time this group, which has a membership of 30 and an average attendance of 20, has completed a large number of articles of many sizes and kinds. Among the garments made were 12 pairs of shorts, 12 pairs of overalls, 18 nightgowns, 12 pairs of rompers, 16 skirts, 16 sweaters for women, one toddler's pack, one woman's dress, four comforts, four mufflers, and several knee blankets for convalescent soldiers. Seventy-five soldiers' kits also have been made.

To this auxiliary goes credit, also, for all banners used on the city's streets during the Red Cross drives in the past two years. At present the women are making scrapbooks for soldiers. They are collecting short stories from magazines, jokes, and religious articles of interest. The large scrapbooks are to be filled with a variety of items which can be read in a short time.

The auxiliary plans to keep continuously active in Red Cross work of any kind that is needed most. Thus, although the members already have contributed a great deal of time and effort to war relief, they maintain that it is "only the beginning."

THIS ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUN COSTS $50,000

$50,000 for one 90-millimeter anti-aircraft gun sounds like a lot of money, doesn't it? But this type gun is a real "plane-crasher" — one shell from it can smash a half-million dollar Jap bomber quicker than you can swat a fly.

YOUR HOUSE may not be a military target, but bombs don't stop to inquire. Bombs don't ask your name or the names of your children, either. In this war, as in no other in history, we are all targets. Blackouts merge soldiers and civilians alike. "War is hell" . . . for all of us. And it is costly . . . for all of us.

Take the anti-aircraft guns that must be counted on to protect your home, your family. Did you know that just one costs $50,000? Just one—and we need 20,000 at once . . . for the fighting front as well as the home front.

Who's going to pay the bill? Not only for the guns, but for the tanks and ships and planes our boys must have to smash the Axis?

Who? Why all of us . . . you and I and the man next door. Because we are all in this war, and because blood and tears and sweat don't mean a thing if they do not come from everybody. Everybody must put every dime and dollar he can spare into Bonds and Stamps, even if it means going without something else . . . remembering that we are apt to go without everything, unless we win. Here is one sure way to turn your patriotism into action and to help win this war—go to your local bank, post office, or other official agency for Bonds now!

Remember you can start buying Bonds by buying Stamps for as little as 10c and that you get a $25.00 Bond (maturity value) for only $18.75.

Auxiliary Busy With War Work

An organization that is always on its toes when it comes to doing war work is the American Legion and its Auxiliary. Members of the local auxiliary are busy working on projects to raise money to purchase defense bonds and stamps having already bought $600 worth of bonds and five dollars of stamps. During the draft registrations members of the auxiliary are always present at the places of registration to assist wherever they can.

For several years the group has met every Thursday in the Red Cross sewing rooms to sew and fold bandages. Articles completed during the past four months number over one hundred and fifty and include dresses, skirts, sweaters, boys' suits, caps, scarfs, shawls and bathrobes.

Miss Ann Maglott and Miss Cooperider are instructors for the auxiliary first aid class which has a membership of 33 and meets every Thursday at the Legion home. Plans are also being made to enroll in the nutrition class which will be started in the city in the near future. For 15 days in December auxiliary members aided in selling Red Cross stamps at the postoffice.

Members of the Mothers' club of the auxiliary have also completed a number of articles for the Red Cross and have made sewing kits under the direction of the president, Mrs. Martha Gardner. Mrs. Verne Castor is president of the auxiliary. Mrs. Donald Matthes, community service chairman, supervised the sewing and knitting activities of auxiliary members.

Your "extra" porcelain enameled refrigerator storage pans can also be used for baking. They are ideal for baking such foods as beans, pot pies, macaroni and cheese, corned beef, etc.

They Aid Red Cross Office Staff

Aiding the Red Cross office staff a corps of volunteer workers known as Staff Assistance takes charge of filing and other routine details created by the emergency work. Miss Lenore Van Gundia, executive secretary of the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross, is shown left explaining the filing system to three volunteers, Mrs. J. C. Strome, Mrs. Ephraim Brown and Mrs. Norman Kahn.

46 WOMEN HANDLE DETAILS OF RED CROSS AS WAR EFFORT AID

When the Red Cross emergency war fund drive started to multiply the clerical duties of the executive staff with such rapidity that it was impossible for the "regulars" to keep pace with them the Staff Assistance corps was organized to relieve the situation.

Known by their canary-yellow uniforms the 46 women of this particular branch of volunteer service are on call to handle filing, conduct registration for volunteer classes, mount all local publicity to be sent to national headquarters and render various other services.

The 10-hour training classes were conducted by Miss Lenore Van Gundia, Richland county Red Cross executive secretary, in which the women were instructed in their potential duties. Many of the city's socially active women enrolled for the course and Mrs. Louis Bromfield of Malabar farm was among the members.

The class had its first work-out the end of December when the management of the Parkway restaurant gave 24-hour receipts to the war emergency fund and requested that Red Cross personnel provide cashiers the entire time. Two of the women began work at 5 a. m. while two others finished at that hour the following day.

Colony Club Aids War Effort By Staging Benefit

If you attended the benefit program given at the Mansfield-Lealand hotel on March 14 by Gladys Owen Stewart of New York you can bet that the price of your ticket will be used to help make the farewell parties for draftees successful and "lots of fun." Mrs. Stewart, an authority on the Elizabethan era who gives dramatic monologs, was brought to the city by an ever-increasing group of newcomers to the city, the Colony club. Proceeds from the benefit were donated to the Soldiers-Citizens committee.

Nearly 100 toddler packs, including snow suits, sweaters, diapers, shirts, rompers and sleeping garments, have been completed by the group. Thirty of the members are enrolled in a first aid class which meets every Thursday evening. Vern Hoffman is the instructor.

Every Tuesday the group spends the day at the Red Cross sewing rooms doing whatever work is available. Mrs. F. R. Thaler is president of the organization. Mrs. J. P. Donohoe is Red Cross chairman of the club.

Seven Sons In U. S. Service

(By Wide World)

ALTON, Ill.—Mrs. Flora Gray wears a victory pin with the figure 7 set in the center.

It stands for her seven sons who are in the United States armed forces. The fighting Grays of Alton, they are called.

Ranging in age from 18 to 28, three are in the army, three in the navy and one in the marines.

One by one the mother let them enlist until there were six in the service of their country. Only the "baby" of the family was left. He was too young to enlist without her permission.

He pleaded to join his older brothers in uniform. Mrs. Gray felt she could not give him up, but she did—soon after Pearl Harbor.

"Now he is doing what he wants to do," Mrs. Gray said. "That is the privilege of every mother's child, as long as the thing he wants to do is right."

Mrs. Gray is proud of her victory pin, given her by the Parent-

Teacher association of Washington school, which she and all her sons attended.

Winifred, Mrs. Gray's only daughter, will be 18 when she graduates from high school in June.

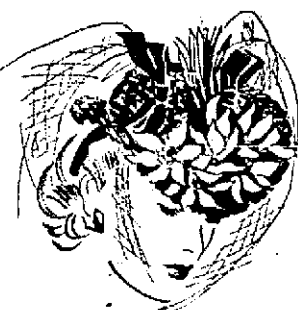

"I'd like to go in as an ambulance driver," she says.

Here is a "hunch" for cocktail or buffet supper serving: stuff 3 inch sticks of crisp celery with mashed liverwurst, cooked chicken livers or liver sausage. Season with salt, paprika, finely chopped parsley, onion. Chill.

Interest On War Time Gardening

A favorite topic at the local garden club meetings this season is "Victory Gardens."

Interesting and informative papers are being presented on the subject and Mansfielders are losing no time in planning their respective "Victory Gardens."

How will the cultivation of small plots of ground help in the war program? The government is encouraging the idea for several reasons: result of eating more vegetables will be a healthier America; having the foodstuffs "in your own backyard," so to speak, will have shipment of the articles and will mean fewer trips to the grocery store in your own automobile.

The government is asking for 15 per cent more farm produce this year. That means the goal is to have one and one-third million more gardens. If families raise their own vegetables, the government can build up a surplus of commodities to send to other countries during and after the war. Thus, having a "Victory Garden" is one important way that civilians can help.

Authorities on the subject urge would-be gardeners to take the matter seriously. They say that persons planning to participate in the program should not merely plow up some land and plant some seeds. The gardeners must study the soil which they plan to cultivate. It may need humus and fertilizer. When the soil has been conditioned, planting should be done as early in the season as possible.

Gardeners should choose vegetables which do not require too much space and which can be rotated.

Other "helpful hints" remind those who are planning "Victory Gardens" not to cultivate more land than they can take care of; not to water the vegetables too often; and to be sure to have the necessary equipment for gardening. Study of disease control is recommended. By careful planning, precautions can be taken against having all the vegetables ripen at the same time.

In order to save space for the vital crops, American families can plant tomatoes in tubs and can use black and red raspberry and currant bushes as background shrubbery. Instead of using bushes for beans, you are advised to grow that vegetable on poles. Strawberries can be raised in barrels. Little plants like parsley are attractive in window boxes and at the same time, save space in the garden.

Library Aids Defense Cause

Mansfield Public Library is gearing its resources to Civilian Defense since being one of the library institutions throughout the country designated as a War Information Center by the Office of Civilian Defense. Miss Virginia Chew, shown here, has been placed in charge of the center by Miss Lois MacKellar, librarian, and she will assemble all titles pertinent to the present emergency as well as all OCD literature for display in this particular section.

Dispenses Data on War

Mansfield Public Library has taken its place among the libraries throughout the country designated as War Information centers and charged with the care of all material relating to the manifold problems of defense.

These centers set up through the Office of Civilian Defense supply the public with information on all phases of civilian defense and keep before the public all related subjects on the theater of war that are available through the library's usual resources.

Miss Virginia Chew of the local library staff has been placed in charge of the War Information center by Miss Lois MacKellar, librarian, and she has assembled a great fund of material on the armed forces, countries involved in the war, and many other subjects pertinent to the issue.

The current display of OCD pamphlets deal with black outs, air raid protection, shelters, evacuation, emergency medical and relief services, mass feeding, nutrition, housing, defense gardening and conservation, to mention only a few.

OCD information will be changed periodically and the next display will deal extensively with nutrition.

Service League Does Its Part

Cooperating with the local Defense Bureau, the Service League has elected Mrs. Wayne McFadden to serve as "defense chairman." She will promote sale of government stamps and bonds at the organization's meetings. The League also has assisted in war work by saving for the Red Cross.

CLEANING VASES

Tall slender vases that are very difficult to cleanse with a dish cloth can be washed easily with a long-handled bottle brush. Half fill the vase with warm soapy water, scour the bottom and sides with the brush, and rinse thoroughly. Thorough cleansing of all flower vases is necessary to remove decayed foliage.

With simple precautions enameled wear will last a long time and give efficient service.

100 Studying In Nurse's Aid Courses

When war struck in the Pacific last December and men and women rushed to Civilian Defense and Red Cross headquarters to enlist for volunteer service it was the Nurse's Aide division and the Home Nursing Service that received the bulk of applications from women volunteers.

Today more than 100 women are learning routine nursing duties that will relieve the graduate nurse of the more technical work for which she has been trained. They are enrolled in either the 80-hour hospital training course set up for Nurse's Aides or the 24-hour course that prepares them to adequately render home care to the sick.

Both groups receive practically the same training as far as fundamentals are concerned but where the Home Nursing course stops, after 24-hours training, the Nurse's Aide course continues by giving the student practical experience in the hospital at the side of a graduate nurse for 45 hours.

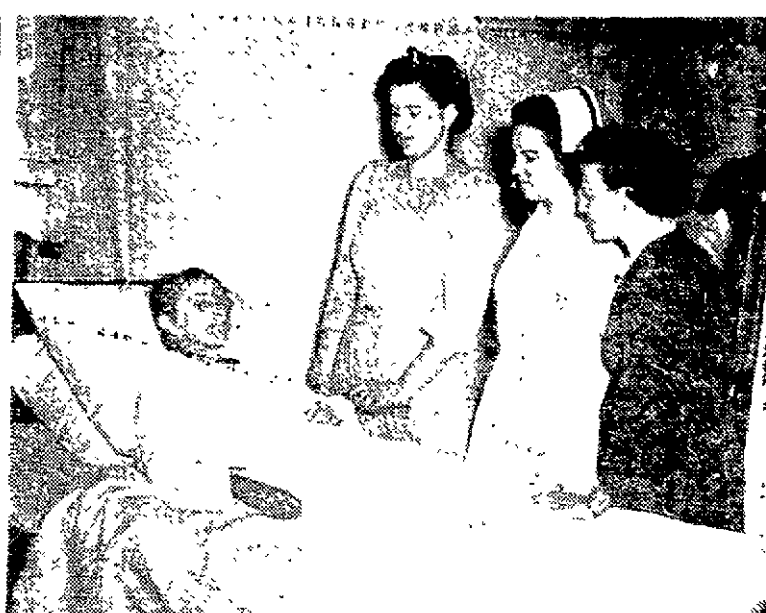

More than 50 Mansfield women made application for Nurse's Aide training when the course was announced by Civilian Defense and when the second class gets underway, within the next few weeks, Mansfield will have in excess of 40 women enrolled for the 80-hour training course and pledged to give 150 hours a year voluntary hospital service for the duration of the war.

The first class of 21 members, practically all home women ranging in age from 18 to 50, is now winding up its first 35-hours of class instruction at Mansfield General hospital and next week will be ready to begin its practical training on the floor.

The women are learning how to make beds according to hospital routine, take temperatures, give baths, serve meals, set up trays for treatment, feed and entertain child patients and undertake other duties that will release the professional nurse for more vital work.

To do this the Nurse's Aides devote the first half of the course taught by Miss Mabel Selfe, director of nurses at Mansfield Gen-

Nurses Aid Corps Serving Vital Part In War Program

The Nurses Aid corps, one of the most important of the Red Cross volunteer services, is now in training at Mansfield General hospital. An 80-hour training course prepares the member for duty and the pledge entails 150 hours volunteer hospital service per year for the duration of the war. The committee in charge of applica-

eral hospital, who gave her services without charge. The first half of the course was taken in two-hour periods and the last half will be taken in three-hour periods five days a week for three weeks.

Nurse's Aide training is based on an experimental course worked out last year in the District of Columbia under the supervision and approval of the National Red Cross Nursing Advisory committee.

All Mansfield applications are handled through the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross and the requirements call for women between the ages of 18 and 50 having a high school education and willing to give the required 80 hours to training and 150 hours a year to hospital service for the duration of the war.

The Mansfield committee for Nurse's Aide was appointed by Mrs. George L. Draffan after the latter had been named chairman of the Nurse's Aide committee by L. W. Birch, county chairman of Richland Red Cross.

84 Signed To Do Home Nursing

The popularity of Red Cross Home Nursing classes zoomed when Americans adopted the slogan, "Remember Pearl Harbor."

Dozens of women eager to safeguard the health of their families by learning the fundamentals of effective home nursing deluged the Red Cross office with calls regarding the course.

Eighty-four women are now enrolled for the 24-hour training period under the supervision of a graduate nurse, approximately eight times as many members as ordinarily complete the course which is a standing part of the Red Cross program.

Taught by a doctor's wife, Mrs. David R. Talbot, a doctor's nursing assistant, Mrs. Harold W. Mitchell, and a registered Red Cross nurse, Mrs. Warren Fort, who has heretofore handled all classes for the past six years, the women are learning how to follow a physician's orders and render adequate care to the patient at home.

They are learning to make beds according to hospital rules, how to change an occupied bed, give a bed bath, fix attractive trays and use home equipment to make the patient comfortable.

The women are shown how it is possible to use make-shift equipment and still gain desired effects such as improvising a back rest with straight-back chair and pillows or creating a foot-warmer out of a homemade cage-like box and an electric light bulb.

How the homemaker can save her own health and strength during the time she is caring for an illness in the family is emphasized during the course, and the various ways in which a house may be "made over" to furnish an isolation ward in the event of a contagious disease are also explained.

Nutrition has a prominent place in the home nursing program and the women are shown how they can cater to the whims of the sick and still serve the kind of trays demanded by the patient's condition.

Budgeting also enters the program and the class is taught how to keep expenses during illness from soaring by using equipment that is found in the home.

Mrs. J. B. Simons of the Red Cross executive board heads the Home Nursing committee and Mrs. Roy Curry is the other qualified instructor.

SLOTTED MOP

A slotted mop is easy to use for dusting around table or chair legs. Sprinkle a few drops of furniture polish on the mop so that the dust will adhere and scatter about the room. Wash the mop frequently in hot water and mild soap suds and hang in the air to dry—select a windy day for washing, if convenient.

Mansfield Women Learn Home Nursing as Defense Contribution

Dozens of Mansfield women are enrolled in Red Cross Home Nursing classes designed to teach the home woman how to care for the sick by using the facilities that she has on hand. Three classes with a combined membership of 84 are now meeting weekly under the supervision of registered nurses. Shown at the left are two students

DAUGHTERS OF VETS TURN OUT KITS, GARMENTS FOR RED CROSS

A group of energetic and victory-minded women with needles, yarn and thread can do a lot for defense. Mary B. Mitchell Tent No. 40, Daughters of Union Veterans, proved this when they announced they had nearly completed 2,000 pieces of material for the local chapter of the Red Cross. They have finished 1,325 sewing kits, 340 toddler kits and many knitted articles. The group isn't stopping there but is even increasing its working time and speed in this type of work.

Knitted material completed includes 42 sweaters, 6 knitted suits, two scarfs, two pairs of socks and 240 knitted pieces including mittens, beanies and sweaters. Toddler kits finished include 20 snow suits, 20 rompers, 2,000 diapers, 11 comforters, 34 pairs of shorts, and 98 other pieces including women's dresses, bathrobes, pajamas and boys' shirts.

Mrs. Marguerite Fair, president of the tent, also serves as an instructor for 36 members of the Motor corps. Mrs. Lottie Pittenger, also a member of the organization, assists Mrs. Fair. Transporting the blind to the Salvation Army to attend meetings of the Lamplighter's Council for the Sightless and returning them to their homes following the session is a weekly undertaking of tent members. They also spend much of their time delivering and calling for Red Cross materials. Collecting newspapers and magazines and purchasing defense bonds and stamps is a full time job for each member of the organization.

SALAD COURSE

Here is an interesting new pair well suited for salad or cocktail course to be served at luncheon, supper or dinner: Combine, in equal portions, wedges of grapefruit with cooked, cleaned shrimps—both chilled. Top with lemon juice and French dressing. They make a tangy blend.

Moose Women Aid In Nurse Training

"Improving the nation's health and homes!" That's the keynote of the war time program adopted by Women of the Moose. They do not find it hard to adjust themselves to the present "all out for defense" program as much of their time previous to the war was spent in this line of work.

As one of Uncle Sam's greatest needs is for nurses, the organization has voted to donate money to Mooseheart, (national children's home of the Moose lodge in Illinois) to be used to send ten girls through nurses training. Members of the seven committees of the Women of the Moose are kept busy planning programs to interest the public. Ritual committee members, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Mabel Keller, are sponsoring a posture clinic which is open to the public.

Miss Loretta Zellers, chairman of the hospital guild, recently announced that her committee had sent $50 to Mooseheart to be used for equipment to fight infantile paralysis.

War Relief committee members have been knitting, sewing and folding bandages for the Red Cross. Twenty pairs of pajamas, 20 bathrobes and a number of shirts were completed by the group. Knitting done included 52 sweaters, five suits and scarves. Mrs. Alice Mast is chairman of the committee.

Collecting books for the men in service has taken up much of the time of members of the library committee and its chairman, Mrs. DaLee Schroll. Besides collecting books, a magazine subscription was sent to an army base, a naval base and a marine base. To conserve vital materials and rise funds these women save tin foil and paper.

Membership committee members, under chairmanship of Mrs. Gaynelle Roth, presented a $100 defense bond to the chapter at a recent meeting. The chapter has also purchased a bond valued at the same amount and committees of the group are planning to do the same.

Impressing the value of nutrition upon their families, neighbors and relatives is a full time job for members of the home-making committee. Much of their time is spent studying the part food plays in our daily lives to enable them to aid in the defense program. Mrs. Mildred Burdette is chairman of the group.

Child Welfare committee has contributed clothing, toys and blankets to needy families in the city and donated a baby layette to the public health department.

Mrs. Virginia Schmunk is chairman of the group. Mrs. Evelyn Harmon has supervised in the work done for welfare by members of the Social Service group. March 16 "Pop" Warner graduated a class of advance first aid pupils and at present there are 50 standard first aid cards in the chapter and 10 advance cards with more members in training.

The Women of the Moose, under the leadership of Miss Ruth Roesch, senior regent, believe that much of the public funds need to be diverted to major war efforts and that this leaves the responsibility of carrying on these many public welfare enterprises to the women of the nation. The local chapter will double and redouble its efforts to insure health, comfort and enlightenment to its community and promises an all-out conservation of vital materials and a one hundred per cent purchase of defense bonds and stamps.

Chilled, stewed prunes served atop fresh gingerbread squares turn out a patriotic sugarless dessert, just right for spring when mineral build-up foods are needed.

D.A.R. Purchasing Transfusion Unit

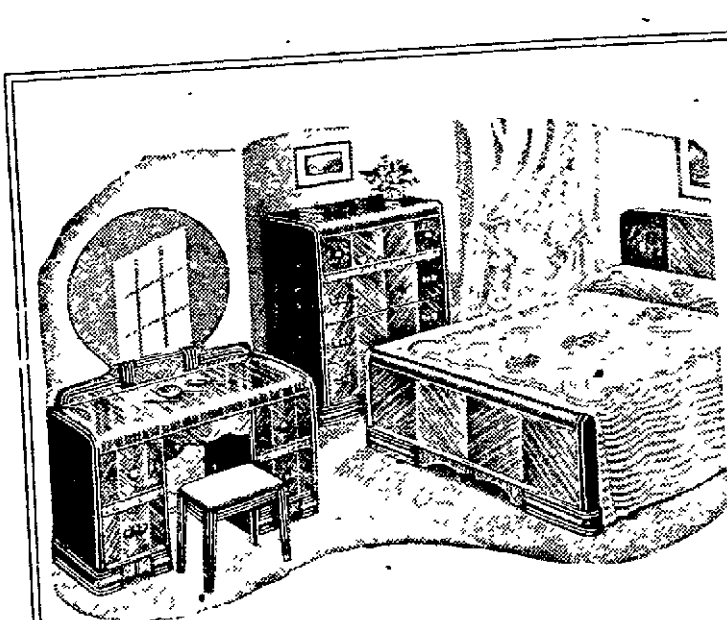

Daughters of the American Revolution are doing their part in the nation's victory campaign by purchasing a mobile unit for blood transfusions. At a recent state convention held in Akron, the D. A. R. chapters represented pledged $1,053 toward the project.

Jared Mansfield and Mary

Washington chapters of this city are among those sponsoring the unit. These women also gave valuable assistance in the drive to sell war stamps and bonds in booths located in the business district early this year.

Nutrition Councils Aid Defense Task

One way to make America strong is to make nutrition a very real part of every community. Therefore, the Richland county chapters of the National Nutrition council and the Red Cross are cooperating on a plan to provide adequate healthful diets for families in this community.

Classes taught by trained home economists will begin tomorrow. Twenty hours in length, they will be free of charge to all interested groups. Mansfield and Richland county women will learn in ten lessons, proper meal planning, food marketing and meal preparation.

In making arrangements for the course, Mrs. W. B. Ford, chairman of the county's nutrition council, has pointed out that, contrary to popular opinion, that no one needs to be told how to eat, most people can improve their food habits and be healthier as a result.

The goal of the nutrition council and the Red Cross is to help families in the development of sound food habits based, not on chance customs or personal tastes, but on the proven facts of nutritional science and education.

Some of the topics to be discussed are preparation of milk, and milk products, fruits, vegetables, cereals, bread, meat and meat substitutes. There will be demonstrations of vitamized cooking, planning meals in which substitutes are used. Canning will also be studied.

Each class will be conducted by a different teacher. One of the subjects will be presented by Mrs. Julia Kiene, nationally known nutritionist and manager of the Westinghouse home economics department. Miss Pauline Schofield, home service director for the Ohio Fuel Gas company, has already instructed a class of 50 Girl Scouts in the importance of nutrition and is now conducting another class.

Each person completing the work will receive a certificate from the Council for Civilian Defense. This will indicate that she has participated in the course which covers all phases of nutrition as well as practical application.

Mrs. Ford has stated that there are two types of volunteers for the nutrition course: the professional and the non-professional. The professional volunteer may serve as consultant and advisor on all nutrition projects; teach courses in nutrition; lecture on nutrition subject matter. The non-professional volunteer may, if she has taken a special course in nutrition such as the one being offered, become a nutrition aide. As such she may participate in group feeding projects and in cooking demonstrations; advise on buying and preparation of food; set up exhibits; assist in classes; and publicize the nutrition program through the press, radio, posters, exhibits and films.

Classes in nutrition will be conducted from 2 until 4 p. m. every Wednesday in John Simpson Junior high school, beginning April 1. Another group will meet at the same place between 7 and 9 o'clock on Wednesday evenings.

The Federation of Women will participate in the program to "make America strong by making Americans stronger" by attending a nutrition class at the Women's Club from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. beginning April 23. Luncheon will be served at the conclusion of the class period.

Although a definite date has not yet been set, Mrs. Ford stated that another class will start at Friendly House some time during the third week in April. Girl Scouts are now attending a class at the Ohio Fuel Gas company every Saturday afternoon. A group of mothers in the Welfare association will meet on Monday evenings.

Plans are being made for classes to be held in the near future at Hedges, Woodland, Newman and Bowman street schools. The American Legion Auxiliary, Delano Auxiliary and other lodges and clubs have expressed a desire to participate in the course also. Definite time for their meetings will be announced soon.

Nutrition Council Active Here

Bending their efforts to "make America strong by making Americans stronger," the Richland County Council of Nutrition for Defense is setting up nutrition classes open to every woman in the county. Home economists from schools and industries will conduct the classes. The three women largely responsible for the program are shown here mapping the course. They are, left to right, Mrs. G. W. Hypes, supervisor of all school lunch rooms in the city and council secretary; Mrs. A. C. Tuttle, a homemaker, and Mrs. W. B. Ford, chairman of the council.

Production Center In High Gear

No sooner had war started in the Pacific than scores of women throughout Richland county found their fingers itching to knit for the armed forces and sew for the relief of civilians bombed out of home and possessions in the war zone.

The heavy quota of sewed and knitted garments set up for Richland county chapter of the Red Cross six months prior to Pearl Harbor for overseas civilian relief disappeared with astonishing rapidity when America declared war.

Close to 1,000 women participated in Red Cross production service last month alone, completing 3,951 garments in 34,840 hours or giving a total of 1,451 days service in 28 days.

The quota of 18,042 garments for 1941 has been completed and the women are now launched upon a knitting program solely for the armed forces overseas.

Enough wool for 600 army and navy sweaters, helmets, gloves, watch caps, sea boots and socks has been received and it is being distributed to knitters together with instructions supplied by the military. Every garment must be made to conform with specified army and navy requirements.

The Red Cross production center located in the brick building east of the Mansfield postoffice is a hive of industry as the work goes forward under the supervision of Mrs. Leopold Adams, general production chairman; Mrs. R. O. Scott, sewing chairman; Miss Eileen Brown, knitting chairman, and Mrs. E. M. Eichin, surgical dressings chairman.

Practically every civic, social, church, school, patriotic, fraternal, business and industrial group in the city is represented at the production center. Some of the organizations work as units while others contribute volunteer service at whatever time the individual members prefer.

In addition to the new production for the army and navy the volunteer workers are being recalled to make surgical dressings for the first time since last July when 104,000 were completed for the year. The new quota calls for 25,000 dressings that will also be sent overseas.

GLASSED FRUITS

As the trend moves to simple foods and simple entertaining, more housewives are finding an assortment of colorful glassed fruits a great help when hurry-up refreshments are called for. Peaches, pears or cherries from a sparkling glass jar and cookies from the family cookie jar are delicious—and nutritious—for desert or afternoon refreshment.

For juicy roasts, use both the base and cover of your porcelain enameled roaster, and add water to provide added moisture during roasting. Add water, if needed, when vegetables are placed in with roast.

Volunteers In Red Cross Sewing Classes

Thousands of hours of volunteer service are given by Richland county women towards the production program of Richland county chapter of the Red Cross. More than 1,000 women are engaged in making sewed and knitted garments for the organization that will focus its attention in the future on knitted items for the U. S. armed forces. The four women, shown here, are in direct supervision of the hours of service. Left to right they are, Miss Eileen Brown, knitting chairman; Mrs. Leopold Adams, general production chairman; Mrs. E. M. Eichin, surgical dressings chairman, and Mrs. R. O. Scott, sewing chairman.

Volunteering to Become a Blood Donor

Handling blood donor registrations for the Red Cross is keeping the newly appointed blood donor committee busy at the Red Cross executive headquarters. Mrs. Louis Bromfield is shown here volunteering to become a donor when the Cleveland mobile blood donor unit comes here the end of May.

Mrs. Bromfield, who is also a member of the Staff Assistance Corps, is shown left and Mrs. Ephraim Brown of the blood donor registration committee is pictured right.

GROUP REGISTERING 500 IN CITY FOR BLOOD DONATIONS

After the return to volunteer service as the blood donor committee composed largely of women whose duties have already started and will increase as the time arrives for the Cleveland mobile blood donor units visit in May.

It will be the task of this committee to register the 500 persons each expected to volunteer a pint of blood for the plasma reserve of the army and navy during the mobile units' three-day stay in the city May 28, 29 and 30.

Mrs. Covel Gorman heads the group that has already made arrangements to use the basement rooms of the First Presbyterian church during the units' visit. Mrs. Burton Preston and Mrs. Martin Stricklet are other members on her committee.

Registrations are being handled by Mrs. Ephraim Brown and Mrs. H. T. Skiles while Mrs. Hamilton Walter and Mrs. William Bowers set up plans for the canteen. Donors are served sandwiches, coffee, milk and cigarettes after they have made their contribution to the plasma reserve.

Publicity for the blood unit is in charge of Mrs. Harry Cave, Mrs. Hamilton Walter and Mrs. William Bowers.

A NEW DISH

Try this new main dish. Pile up cooked, seasoned spinach in a shallow, buttered baking dish, strip with bacon and sprinkle with sliced or grated cheese. Bake until bacon is crisp in moderate oven.

Cream soups and chowders step into main parts of luncheon or dinner menus when sprinkled with grated or sliced cheese and accompanied by crackers, toast or hard rolls. With a substantial vegetable salad and fruit or baked dessert you have a nutritious meal considerate of the budget.

TASTY WAFFLES

Chop any left-over cooked ham that you have on hand, put it into your regular waffle batter, proceed as usual and serve the hot waffles spread with creamed vegetables, leftover gravy or any preferred savory sauce. With a green vegetable, salad and family favorite dessert here is a meal, low costing, but with its full nutrition quota. From 1/2 to 3/4 cup ham is enough for about 2 cups flour used in the waffles.

War Work's Old Task For B. P. W.

Organized during the last war for the purpose of aiding the American government to obtain vital information on the training and skills of women gainfully employed the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's club is again performing the same type of service, plus many others, in the present emergency.

The Mansfield Business and Professional club is contributing to the master file set up at the national headquarters in New York City to show the occupational training of the thousands of members belonging to the national organization. Bertha Nienberg, assistant director of the Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor, is chairman of the national committee.

Miss Celia Brumbach acted as chairman of the survey for the Mansfield club and she was assisted by Miss Grace Bonnell and Miss Martha McFarland. The file will be kept up to date and as changes of occupation or address are made they will be forwarded to national headquarters.

"Strengthen Democracy for Defense" is the theme of the club for the year and various committees in the organization are planning programs with this theme in mind. Health and recreation committee, of which Miss Catherine Riggs is chairman, is sponsoring a First Aid class which meets every Thursday evening in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church. Mrs. W. J. Bishop is instructor for the class of 40 women.

The class began with 40 members and when the standard course was completed the majority of the first aid students launched upon the advanced training.

Social Service committee, members under the chairmanship of Miss Minnie Laudon, have spent much of their time working at the local Red Cross headquarters, folding bandages and knitting. All members are doing their part not only with their services but by purchasing as many defense bonds and stamps as they can.

Credo of the club for 1942 is: "As American women who are gainfully employed outside our homes, we reaffirm our faith in the fundamental freedoms which are the goals of the United States of America."

We pledge ourselves to build and conserve our health so that we may be strong and useful to our community and nation.

We pledge ourselves to be intelligent and willing taxpayers to help finance the all out American Defense effort.

We pledge ourselves to war against waste so that we may buy war savings stamps and bonds in the service of our country and contribute financially to other work.

We pledge ourselves to be tolerant and to promote tolerance in others and to refrain from unfair criticism.

We pledge ourselves to believe in and work for the triumph of right in the present world conflict."

Miss Mary Elizabeth Gruber is president of the local organization.

You Can Help Keep Good Gas Service Under War Conditions

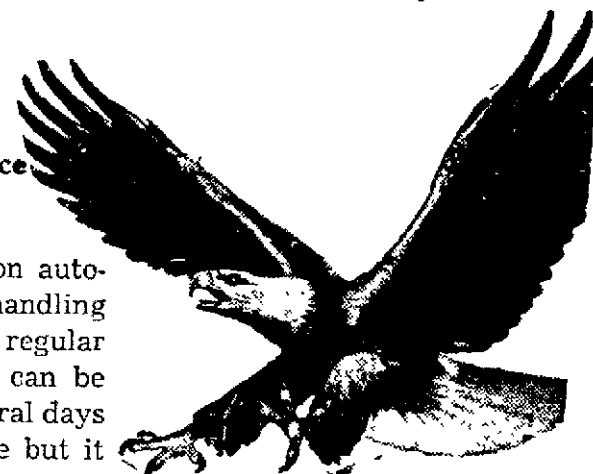

Automobile and tire rationing, and a shrinkage in available, trained manpower are making themselves felt in the gas business—and will increase as time goes on. Certain changes of policy which we regret, but are beyond our control, have been made necessary. Yet, with the cooperation of our customers, we believe that high standards of service can be rendered to every user. The Gas Company is pledging itself to do its part and by reading this message you can learn how your help is necessary.

Please Give Reasonable Notice On Requests For Service

Service calls make heavy demands on automobiles, tires and manpower. By handling your service requests along with the regular routing of our trucks, much of this can be saved. Usually customers know several days ahead when they will require service but it has become a rather common habit to notify The Gas Company at the last minute, necessitating a special call. Such requests include turning gas on and off as in moving, appliance adjustments, pressure investigations and similar work. In the future the following policy is necessary—

Except in cases of suspected hazard or extreme emergency, a minimum of 24 hours' notice will be required for service calls in communities where service crews are maintained, and in towns serviced from other communities such calls must conform to a less frequent schedule of routing trucks.

The more notice you can give, the more nearly we can try to conform to your schedule. Please make every effort to be at home when such appointments are made so that your request can be handled in one call. Under this plan some few customers may experience temporary inconvenience, but we do not believe any real hardships will result.

Collectors Are Discontinued

To save tires, automobiles and manpower for essential maintenance of gas service, the use of outside bill collectors is being discontinued, and this policy is now effective—

The use of collectors is being discontinued in such communities which heretofore were large enough to justify their use, and in smaller towns other employees will no longer be assigned part time to this work. Customers who have past-due bills and who have not established a record of prompt payment will receive a notice of discontinuing service which will be enforced on the next scheduled round of the service truck after the effective date of the notice. A charge of One Dollar ($1.00) will be made for turning on gas after service has been discontinued for non-payment of the bill.

Directed Victory Book Campaign

The Victory Book campaign which brought approximately 9,000 books from throughout Mansfield and Richland county for the armed forces was handled almost entirely by women Miss Lois MacKellar, librarian at the Mansfield Public Library, served as county chairman in the campaign. She is pictured here seated, inspecting some of the donations while two members of the sorting and mending committee look on. Mrs. Donald L. Black, left, headed the committee as chairman, and Mrs. Louis J. Ott, right, was among the six member group.

COUNTY BOOK CAMPAIGN GIVES SERVICE MEN READING MATERIAL

The women "put across" the Victory book campaign to supply Uncle Sam's soldiers and sailors with reading material although they had the Boy Scouts to help them.

From private libraries, attics and stored away boxes of class room text books the women of Richland county supplied 9,000 volumes in the Mansfield and county campaign started in January.

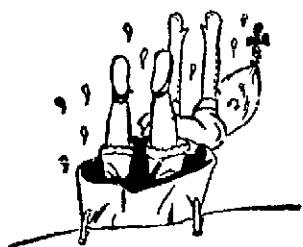

Miss Lois MacKellar, librarian at Mansfield Public Library, headed the campaign as county chairman and she had the aid of a special corps of volunteer workers scattered throughout the county to act as collectors.

This group included branch librarians at Bellville and Plymouth and also women from various communities who supervised collection centers set up in halls and stores.

The big task of sorting the thousands of volumes fell to another special committee composed largely of women who were formerly members of the local library staff. Mrs. Donald L. Black, chairman of the committee which included Mrs. Louis J. Ott, Mrs. John Goff, Mrs. Harry Cave and Mrs. Charles S. Duckwald.

Books were classified according to fiction, non-fiction and numerous other categories and the volumes too worn to warrant mending were sold to obtain funds for shipping.

Emphasizes Food's Place In Wartime

"Health for Victory!"

There's a lot of significance in the new name adopted by the nation's first organization to study planning, purchasing and preparing healthful meals for production soldiers — employees of Westinghouse and their families.

In keeping with America's war effort, the club's name has been changed from "Health for Defense" to "Health for Victory." Mrs. Julia Kiene, manager of the Westinghouse home economics department, explained her plan for providing adequate meals for the "men behind the men behind the guns," at a mass meeting on March 4.

Of the 375 women who attended the initial meeting, 320 of these wives, mothers, sisters and landladies of Westinghouse workers returned to fill in questionnaires and receive their 77-page booklets of specially selected recipes and menus for the month of March.

Answers to the questionnaires revealed that seven out of 10 members have children to cook for; that five out of 10 pack lunch pails for their husbands, and that eight out of 10 do home canning.

The Health for Victory club, which has been organized exclusively for Westinghouse homemakers, provides for healthful, energy-giving meals for a family of five on a budget of $14 a week. Mrs. Kiene has put much time, thought and effort into her recipes and menus for she feels that "Housewives are real war workers and they deserve every bit of help possible. The health of America is largely their responsibility, and the food served in the home can make, or break, the health of the family."

Any club member may consult individually with Mrs. Kiene during a regular daily period. From questionnaire replies and personal interviews, Mrs. Kiene plans to change and adapt the monthly guide to fit the needs of the members. She has asked for constructive criticism.

A Health for Victory club headquarters containing complete kitchen equipment will be set up in a part of the plant easily accessible to the members, Mrs. Kiene announced. They will be invited to cook foods right there, so that, for example, a woman can learn to bake bread by doing it herself, with the advice of Mrs. Kiene and her staff readily available.

All Mansfield food merchants will receive copies of the monthly guide as an informative service. Mrs. Kiene, who buys locally large amounts of food for the equipment and recipe testing activities of the Westinghouse home economics department, confers with many grocers and butchers in planning monthly guides. She also uses government bulletins and other commodity reporting services.

When the Health for Victory club members—400 of them—held their second meeting in the Westinghouse auditorium last week, Mrs. Kiene told her audience, "You women here today are setting a national example and you can feel that you are doing your share to beat Germany and Japan."

At the same meeting, Mrs. Kiene said that many women had told her they are "almost" convinced that the cooking of vegetables can be done with very little water. She then demonstrated that vitaminized cooking—the kind that retains the vitamins in the food—can be done even with a tomato can as a container and small pie tin as lid.

The success of the club's efforts is indicated by statements of many of its members who have tried the suggested menus and recipes since attending the first meeting a month ago.

"Do I like the plan?" asked Mrs. Fred Brantingham. "That's why I came back to this second meeting."

"I have tried the menus and find them not only most economical but full of variety," she said, "and variety is something my two youngsters enjoy. I should think, too, that this plan would be a great help for a newlywed who

Get Recipes at 'Health for Victory' Meeting

Some of the 400 Mansfield women who attended the second Health for Victory Club meeting held in the Westinghouse auditorium last week are shown obtaining their April menu and recipe guides prepared by Mrs. Julia Kiene, manager of the company's home economics department. The books were distributed by Miss Katherine Rhoads and Miss Charlotte Ferris, assistants to Mrs. Kiene. Membership in the Health for Victory Club is limited to homemakers of Westinghouse employees, furloughed workers and men in service. The menu and recipe guides furnish valuable assistance to the homemakers whose task it is to plan, purchase and prepare healthful meals.

might need guidance to get the correct balance in her meals."

Mrs. William Downard said she was attending for the first time because her neighbor had enjoyed success with the plan.

"The menus are figured very close to the budgeted amount," remarked another club member. "I followed them rather closely and appreciate the variety as well as the economy."

Still another Westinghouse homemaker said that, although she has been cooking for 22 years, she has learned "new tricks" from Mrs. Kiene's suggestions.

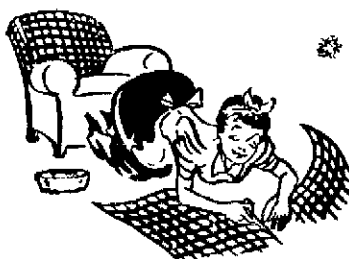

And the wives, sisters, mothers and landladies are not the only ones who are taking enthusiastic interest in the plan. Husbands—the production soldiers themselves—have conferred with Mrs. Kiene about problems involved in the meal planning, purchasing and preparing. Several have told Mrs. Kiene that food "tastes better" when cooked the vitaminized way.

Children who used to refuse to eat certain foods now watch the daily menus in the Health for Victory booklet and if a certain commodity is recommended they eat it willingly. Some of the youngsters even "scold" their mothers if the homemakers make the slightest change in the menus.

Mrs. Kiene told her audience that the Health for Victory club is the "biggest job that any group of women has ever done together" in the nation's victory program.

Counting Cents Is Common Sense

Slip-covers made to fit loosely wear longer than tightly stretched, well-fitted "jackets." Give your cover plenty of room to shift on the job—folks have a habit of being restless.

With all the money you'll save, buy DEFENSE SAVINGS STAMPS—Every Stamp and Bond you buy is an investment in freedom. War needs money!

CUSTARD SAUCE

A flavorful, creamy custard sauce served over diced fresh or canned fruit as dessert, often adds zest to a simple meal. Try this when the family balks over its egg and milk rations.

When other cities adopt a similar plan for their war workers, Mrs. Kiene's aim to have a healthier America will have been accomplished.

SWEATER IDEA

A one-piece twin sweater set is costing the girls in London fewer coupons than would two sweaters. The pullover and cardigan effect is achieved by a sweater which unbuttons down the front over a false front.

This might be a suggestion to girls knitting their own twin sweater sets. It would save time and conserve wool.

TOPPER TIPS

There will be no hitch in the hat division of the Easter parade this year. You can wear a new straw bonnet just as you always have. Hat designers say the American straw weaves and braid are superb, and there is plenty of imported straw here for those who want it. The problem is which one to choose.

Cookies Made Here Travel Many Miles

From Fort Buchanan, Puerto Rico to Schofield Barracks, Hawaii . . . from the U. S. S. Lexington at sea . . . from all parts of the world have come letters of appreciation from men in service who have received boxes of cookies baked by Mrs. Julia Kiene, Westinghouse home economics director, and her two assistants, Katherine Rhoads and Charlotte Ferris.

Since last fall, boxes of cookies ranging in weight from two and one-half to three and one-half pounds each have been sent to the more than 1,000 Westinghouse men now serving in the nation's armed forces.

There's nothing ordinary about these cookies—ten varieties were baked in the company's model kitchens and passed by a selected "board of censorship" before any of the boxes were sent. A committee of five Mansfield men who like cookies and who have definite likes and dislikes chose the assortment as the hungry males' favorites in the cookie realm.

What does the assortment include? There are grandmother's fruit bars (made with molasses, spices, nuts, dates and brown sugar), oatmeal drop cookies, mystery bars (filled with coconut, lots of butter, brown sugar and nuts), Chinese chews and tudge bars.

Not only were the cookies chosen for their taste appeal, but also with an eye to their mineral and vitamin content. For example, molasses is used because it is a fine source of iron. Butter has a high vitamin A content, oatmeal has a high vitamin B-1 rating, raisins and dates are rich in minerals and vitamins, and the fortified flour used in the cookies contains B-1 vitamin, nicotinic acid and minerals such as phosphorus, iron and calcium.

How often are the cookies sent? Mrs. Kiene explains that she and members of her department usually wait until there are 100 names, then, with much activity, turn to mass production of cookies.

And are they good? Among the numerous thank-you letters written to Mrs. Kiene and the Westinghouse supervisors of industrial relations was the following suggestion which reveals the popularity of the cookies:

"In case you send some more cookies, please camouflage the package so that the chow-hounds won't spy it."

Musical Events Aid War Task

Music is important to morale. The benefit concert which was given on March 22 by the Treble Choir, directed by Mrs. W. J. Hazeltine, and by duo-pianists Mrs. George W. Hall and Miss Thelma Reed, not only provided entertainment, but also gave financial aid to a worthy cause.

Proceeds from the concert went to the National Children's fund of the Junior Red Cross.

Pupils Learning First Aid

While the teacher and classmates look on, Eldon Pritchard gives first aid to "Victim" Robert Yeager at Newman school. Sixty-two youngsters in the fifth and sixth grades comprise the city's only First Aid class for boys and girls in elementary school. Miss Frances Wolfe is

PUPILS TAKE TO FIRST AID COURSE LIKE 'DUCK TO WATER'

If you want to see real enthusiasm and whole-hearted interest in first aid lessons, you should watch the fifth and sixth graders at Newman school!

In the city's only first aid class for elementary school children, 62 boys and girls listen and watch attentively when Miss Frances Wolfe explains and demonstrates the work. And that's not the only time they give time and thought to first aid.

These youngsters frequently spend their recesses and noon hours practicing bandaging. That's the part of first aid they enjoy most.

After they've bandaged the head, foot, arm or chest of a small "victim," they lead the youngster through the corridors until they locate Miss Wolfe to secure her approval or criticism.

Of the 62 boys and girls enrolled, 25 are 12 years of age or over. They will be eligible to receive Red Cross first aid cards for juniors at the conclusion of the course. The 37 youngsters who are not yet 12 years old are taking the training to learn how to give others proper care in emergencies.

The classes began on March 12 and will be held every Thursday and Friday afternoon until the close of the school term in June. To date the boys and girls have learned what First Aid is, how to treat various types of wounds, how to treat shock, what to do when bitten by dogs or snakes, how to remove splinters and other objects from eyes and ears.

Sponsored by the Red Cross, the course at Newman school is an experiment. If it proves successful, similar classes will be conducted in other elementary schools in the city.

These children do not forget what they have been told. After being taught that the bleeding can be stopped by applying pressure in six different places on the body, one of the first aiders immediately applied pressure below a severe forehead cut which one of his classmates received in a minor accident at the school.

Knowledge of first aid frequently comes in handy on the playground, too. It is now a common sight, says Miss Wolfe, to see one child leading a bleeding youngster to the basement to administer treatment in the most approved first aid method before calling a teacher to inspect the "finished product."

There's nothing haphazard about the course. These fifth and sixth graders have become expert in the proper method of "taking pulses."

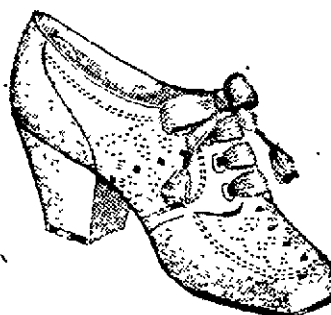

From now on whenever and wherever there is an emergency—at school or at home—you can be sure that these 62 boys and girls will know exactly what to do.

Keep a drinking cup of pure white porcelain enamel in the kitchen for these quick drinks of water the children want en route to and from play.

They Help Direct Part of Y. W. C. A. In Mansfield War Program

The war-time program of the Y. W. C. A. is designed to develop character equal to the rigors of war and the challenge of the world thereafter. Hundreds of young women are participating in this program while scores of others use the building for first aid training classes. Heading the general work of the organization are the three of-

Dance Proceeds Go To Red Cross

Among the numerous projects staged for the benefit of the Red Cross was a successful dance sponsored on March 7 by two of Mansfield's sororities, Alpha Pi Sigma and Chi Sigma.

Aptly titled "Victory Swing," the dance brought substantial proceeds which were turned over to the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross.

CANAPES

Something new and inexpensive in canapes for that cocktail party. Make up rich biscuit dough, pat out pieces 2 by 6 inches and 1/2 inch thick. Center each with cooked, peeled frankfur. Roll up the dough over and around, pinching edges to keep in place. Cut in one each slices, using sharp knife. Bake flat sides up on greased baking sheet 5 minutes in moderate oven. Spear with wood picks and stack up on shallow dish (heated).

Y. W. C. A. SEEKS TO MAINTAIN CHARACTER THROUGH PROGRAM

The Young Women's Christian association takes its place in a world at war by offering a program that will preserve the creative power of the individual and place at the disposal of its membership and fellow citizens the facilities offered by the Y. W. C. A. building for civilian defense purposes.

Headed by Mrs. Irl L. Fisher the women on the Y. W. C. A. board of directors are now engaged in planning a program for developing character equal to the rigors of war and the challenge of the world thereafter.

This program applies to the several hundred young women including Y. W. Blue Tri and Girl Reserve high school organization who busy themselves with such projects as Red Cross sewing and knitting, first aid, the collection of reading material for the men in service and the conservation of waste materials.

Close to 300 high school girls participate in the Y. W. C. A. program and they recently gave a public demonstration showing the wide range of activities and projects covered during the past year.

Mrs. Norma Miklich is program leader for the junior activities while Miss Bertha A. Gregory, general secretary, directs and co-ordinates the program of the entire association.

An education committee with a board member, Mrs. Mina L. Nase, as chairman, plans for classes that will release the tension of every day living. These include tap classes for children and bridge and book reviews for adults. Several other classes pertinent to health, such as nutrition and physical recreation, are also being considered.

The assembly rooms of the building have been used by approximately 175 persons for first aid classes sponsored by organizations outside the association. They are also used by a regular Friday Red Cross sewing group that turns out convalescent robes and other garments to relieve distress in war areas.

voted to a physician's lectures and the second to demonstrations. The course covers 24 hours.

Hospital nurses, city health nurses, and the Visiting Nurses association are all co-operating in the program that aside from providing professional nurses for hospital and emergency stations will equip nurseries with qualified nursing assistance.

Preparations are also being made to provide adequate nursing care for maternity cases that will all be handled in the home instead of in hospitals should disaster victims fill the latter institutions.

Nurses Take Their Places In War Work

Marshaled for service in the event of an emergency Mansfield's graduate nurses are taking their place in civilian defense.

Already, 141 of them have been designated to posts at local casualty stations and secondary hospitals and 50 more are available for registration.

Right now their job is to urge the citizenry to contribute to a campaign for supplies for these emergency stations and the nurses will also supervise the making of sterile dressings from some of the sheets and pillow cases collected in the drive.

The nurses were registered for service through the efforts of Miss Faye Chamberlain of the Visiting Nurses association, who represents the nursing profession in the medical division of civilian defense.

Some of these graduates have not been active in the nursing profession for 20 years and this group is now brushing up on general nursing procedure and new medications and treatments through a refresher course held two nights a week at Mansfield General hospital. Classes are held in two hour periods with the first hour de-
